THE ISLAND

gevision/Shutterstock.com

Nestled within the Canary Islands archipelago, Fuerteventura emerges as a tranquil oasis of diverse landscapes and sun-drenched shores. The island's 340 km gilt-edged coast surrounds a relatively flat interior of gentle hills and sweeping plains. The unique desert landscape and long-dead volcanoes are a sight to behold and earned the whole island the title of UNESCO Biosphere Reserve in 2009.

Goat herders and fishermen once ruled the island, living a simple life of relative solitude. Nowadays, tourism is the driving force, centred around the lively resorts of Corralejo in the north, Jandía in the south, and more recently, Caleta de Fuste on the east coast.

DO & SEE

Pawel Kazmierczak/Shutterstock.com

Fuerteventura offers a plethora of experiences that cater to every traveller's desires. Begin by basking in the sun-kissed glory of its pristine beaches, such as Corralejo and Sotavento, where crystal-clear waters invite you to swim, surf, or simply unwind. Adventure seekers can conquer the majestic sand dunes of Corralejo Natural Park. For an adrenaline rush, windsurfing and kiteboarding at Playa de Sotavento are must-tries, thanks to the island's brisk winds. And don't miss the chance to delve into the island's rich history and culture by exploring the charming village of Betancuria, with its historical sites and charming streets.

Isla de Lobos

Just 2 km off the coast of Fuerteventura, Isla de Lobos is an untouched gem, home to a sprawling nature sanctuary teeming with an array of flora and fauna, including rare birds. Its main beach, Playa de la Concha, is known for its pristine waters. Trails cross a landscape of salt marshes and hornitos (small volcanic mounds) leading to the volcanic marvel of Montaña La Caldera and the historic Martiño lighthouse.

Iglesia de Santa María de Betancuria

Nestled in the heart of Fuerteventura's former capital, Betancuria, stands a lovely church that whispers tales of centuries past. With roots tracing back to the XV century, this exquisite Norman Gothic gem exudes an air of ancient elegance. However, the winds of history took a toll, and in 1593, the church met its ruinous fate, adding a layer of mystique to its weathered stones.

Tindaya Mountain

Montaña de Tindaya is a sacred mountain renowned for its natural, geological, and historic significance. Still known as "The Mountain of Witches", the mountain is associated with the times of myth and magic — there are 213 engravings from prehistoric times dotted around the hillsides. On clear days, hikers may catch a glimpse of Tenerife and Gran Canaria from the summit of the mountain. The hike is suitable for all experience levels.

NOTE: This mountain is a protected area for several species of birds, and hikers must seek a permit from 'Consejería de Medio Ambiente' before setting foot on the mountain.

DINING

LauraVI/Shutterstock.com

Unsurprisingly, fish is predominant in most of the island's restaurants, especially those on the coast, with swordfish, sea bass, octopus, and limpets as some of the more favoured delicacies. Inland, the ingredients favour more pastoral palettes with goat, rabbit, gofio (roasted corn meal), and the famous Maxorata cheese on the menu. Most main dishes are served with the ubiquitous accompaniments of fiery red mojo sauce and 'wrinkled potatoes' (papas arrugadas).

TOURIST INFORMATION

Brigida Soriano/Shutterstock.com

Passport & Visa

Citizens of European Union (EU) and European Economic Area (EEA) countries do not need a visa to enter Spain, only a valid ID. Many other countries, including the United Kingdom, United States, Canada, United Arab Emirates, Australia, and New Zealand, benefit from visa-free entry for short stays of up to 90 days within a 180-day period.

Visitors from visa-exempt countries must hold a valid passport and, starting in late 2025, will need to apply for an ETIAS (European Travel Information and Authorisation System) authorisation online before travelling.

For those requiring a visa, such as travellers from some Middle-East, African or Asian nations, a Schengen visa must be obtained prior to arrival. All travellers should ensure their passport is valid for at least three months beyond their intended stay.

Fuerteventura Airport (FUE)

The Fuerteventura Airport (FUE) is situated mid-way up the island's east coast, 3 kilometres from Puerto del Rosario and 35 kilometres from Corralejo.

Bus line 3 of Tiadhe runs from Las Salinas to Puerto del Rosario and vice versa, the bus stops in Caleta de Fuste (El Castillo), Costa de Antigua, El Matorral, and at the airport. From Monday to Saturday, the bus leaves every 30 minutes; on Sundays and public holidays, there's a bus every hour. The journey time from the airport to the main bus station in Puerto del Rosario is 15 minutes. The bus station is located a 5 to 10-minute walk from downtown Puerto del Rosario.

Taxis are also available outside the arrivals hall.

Public Transport

Fuerteventura has a good local bus network serving most parts of the island (except parts of the southwest coast). The bus network is primarily used by the locals and may not give you the best flexibility. Renting a car is your best option for navigating the island, as the road network is generally very good. If you are after a more active holiday, mountain bikes can also be hired.
