Lodz, Poland's third largest city and a former textile industry stronghold, today is a center for modern technologies, a city of culture and grand events. It is a metropolis where a landscape of industrial architecture mixes with silhouettes of 20th century office buildings, production halls, culture and sporting facilities. Lodz is perfect for anyone wanting to get a glimpse of exciting, modern Poland, so come before it settles firmly on the tourist radar.

THE CITY

whitelook/Shutterstock.com

Once known as “Manchester of Poland” on account of its numerous brick and cast iron factory buildings, Lodz (pronounced “woodge”) is a place that offers something for everyone. It has long been the centre of the vibrant Polish film industry – it is sometimes affectionately known as “Holly-lodz” – and is one of the country’s cultural and industrial centres.

A mere 96 miles from Warsaw, Lodz is centred around Ulica Piotrkowska, the city’s main pedestrianised boulevard – the longest pedestrianised street in Europe, in fact – which stretches nearly four kilometres from Plac Wolnosci in the north to Aleja Pilsudskiego in the south. Lined with shops and museums, it also contains dozens of grand Baroque, Art Nouveau and Secession-style buildings which once belonged to the city’s wealthy industrialists. It is also the location for most of the city’s tourist sights as well as many of its better cafés, restaurants, bars and night spots. Other central streets proffer some of the most impressive and opulent palaces and manor homes, especially along ul. Ogrodowa, ul. Gdanska and plac Zwyciestwa.

Lodz is also an incredibly green city, holding over 30 municipal parks. The best one is the verdant Lagiewniki Forest, the largest city park in Europe and a perfect spot for an afternoon stroll.

DO & SEE

Fred Romero/Flickr (image cropped)

Lodz is known for its cultural attractions and art galleries, like the Modern Art Museum which houses one of the best collections of contemporary artwork in Poland. You will also find plenty of museums displaying the city's rich heritage and history like the Historical Museum of Lodz and Museum of Ethnography and Archaeology.

Manufaktura

One of Lodz' most prominent attractions, the Manufaktura is an entire complex containing an abundance of shops and dining establishments within the walls of a refurbished textile factory. It's a local hot spot, especially so during the warmer times of year.

DINING

Kevin Curtis/Unsplash.com

Given its sizable and cosmopolitan population, it comes as little surprise that Lodz has an excellent selection of dining establishments. The majority of places serving great Polish food are situated along ul. Piotrkowska, but if you venture just off this main drag, you'll find some interesting and unique food offerings, including several popular ethnic restaurants ranging from Balkan to Cuban to French.

Manufaktura

One of Lodz' most prominent attractions, the Manufaktura, is an entire complex containing an abundance of shops and dining establishments within the walls of a refurbished textile factory. It's a local hot spot, especially so during the warmer times of year.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

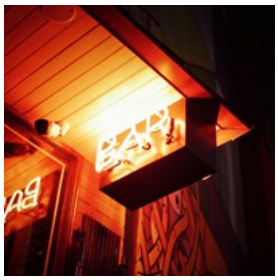

Crew/Unsplash.com

Lodz's selection of drinking establishments ranges from gritty student pubs for downing pints to fashionable and trendy places to sip a cocktail and people-watch the nouveau riche and fashionable. The greatest majority are placed around the most central blocks of ul. Piotrkowska.

Thanks to its active and sophisticated student population, Lodz's nightlife rivals some of the best places to dance in Europe. Put away any thoughts of Poland being old, grey and communist and put on your dancing shoes on instead.

Łódź Kaliska

Lodz Kaliska is a great, artsy bar-club at the end of a small street that puts on numerous live music events attracting a wide range of locals and visitors. There is lots of drinking, especially on the rooftop terrace in the summer.

SHOPPING

Artem Bali/Unsplash.com

While Poland is now a member of the EU, on the whole prices are still generally quite a bit lower than in other European countries, especially for items such as clothing and electronics. In Lodz’s centre, you will find many shops along the main pedestrianised street of Piotrkowska.

Lodz is also an excellent place to pick up any number of Polish handicrafts for which the country is famous, especially amber and silver items. Poland is also of course well known for its vodka – Wyborowka is the most popular – and bottles can often be purchased more cheaply at liquor shops in town than at the airport duty free.

Manufaktura

One of Lodz' most prominent attractions, the Manufaktura is an entire complex containing an abundance of shops and dining establishments within the walls of a refurbished textile factory. It's a local hot spot, especially so during the warmer times of year.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Fred Romero/Flickr (image cropped)

Passport / Visa

Poland can be visited visa-free for up to 90 days by citizens of most European countries, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Malaysia, Israel, UAE and most countries in America. If you are unsure whether or not you need to apply for a visa, we recommend contacting the embassy or consulate in your country. International (non-Schengen) travelers need a passport that is valid for at least 3 months after the end of their intended trip in order to enter the Schengen zone. Citizens of Schengen countries can travel without a passport, but must have a valid ID with them during their stay.

Best Time to Visit

May through October are the best for planning a trip to Lodz, as temperatures tend to be favourable and the event calendar dense with happenings.

Lodz Wladyslaw Reymont - Airport

Lodz Wladyslaw Reymont Airport is located 6 Km from the city centre of Lodz. The city is accessible by bus which departs from the airport. Journey time to the city centre is 15 minutes and 10 minutes to the Train station Łódź. A taxi rank is located in front of Terminal. The average journey time into the city is between 8 to 10 minutes.

Public transport

In terms of size, Lodz is a very manageable city, and most places can be easily walked to. Getting around Lodz with public transport is also simple and straightforward, since an extensive, modern bus and tram network is spread throughout the city. Buses and trams use the same tickets, available in various denominations.

The Jakdojade website and app are a convenient and handy tool for anyone trying to navigate Lodz by public transport.

Long-distance trains operate regularly to other Polish cities. Lodz's train station and central bus station are located next to each other on the eastern edge of town a few blocks from the northern end of Piotrkowska. Warsaw is 2.5 hours away by train.

Taxi

Because taxis are cheap – it is worth taking a taxi instead of the bus – it can make good practical sense to use them if you're short on time. There are taxi ranks at the plac Wolnosci and at various spots along ul. Piotrkowska.

Alternatively, ride sharing apps such as Uber and MyTaxi are both in wide use as well.
