Adelaide is a new city in an old land, founded as a British colony in 1836 and now the capital of South Australia. Today, its rich mix of diverse cultures has adapted a relaxed and cosmopolitan lifestyle amidst green parks as well as 30km of beaches stretching along its suburbs. The city is famous for its al fresco eating culture, and it is the centre of the Australian wine industry, with some of the best food and drinks in the world.

THE CITY

Leshaines123/Flickr.com (image cropped)

When Colonel William Light picked the Adelaide Plains as the capital of the new British colony back in 1836, the region had already been home to the Kaurna Aboriginal people for thousands of years. Previously known as Tarndanyangga, or place of the red kangaroo, the new settlement that arose on the plains developed into one of the most culturally diverse cities in the world.

Named after the wife of King George IV of the United Kingdom, Adelaide soon spread out to the seashore, now dotted with a long line of relaxing beach suburbs.

The arrival of successive waves of immigrants--from Germans and Italians to Lebanese and Japanese--has given the city an enviable reputation for good food and drinks with some of the most diverse eating opportunities within the whole world. The wine-making brought by German immigrants, for example, has turned Adelaide into one of the world's great wine-producing centres.

The city's 19th-century centre, which lies closer to the Torrens River, is still intact, and it gives visitors a feel for the colony's early days. It is also a grid of wide graceful streets encircled by a ring of parks, which rewards Adelaide with an open and green atmosphere. Combined that with the blue skies and warmth of the South Australian climate, and you've got yourself one of the most beautiful cities in the world.

Passport / Visa

Unless you are a New Zealand citizen granted visa exemption on arrival (in most cases), you will need to obtain a visa prior to visiting Australia.

Citizens of all European Union countries, as well as Andorra, Norway, Iceland, San Marino, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Monaco, and Vatican City are eligible for an eVisitor visa, which can be applied for online. For citizens of the United States, Canada, Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Brunei, South Korea and Malaysia, the Electronic Travel Authority (ETA) entry permit is available, which can be applied for online and grants holders the right to enter Australia an unlimited amount of times for stays of no longer than 3 months per visit.

Citizens of all other world countries (with the exception of Somalia) are also able to apply for a visitor visa online. Best Time to Visit

The most lively seasons in which also locals are out in order to enjoy the warm weather in Adelaide is between February and May, as the average temperatures of around 24 degrees allow for every outdoor (and must-do) activity and also attending interesting events such as the Adelaide Fringe Festival. While February is the hottest month of the year, the following ones cool down the weather to a level of comfort that ends with winter coming around from June until August.

Taxi

It is easiest to hail a taxi on the street, especially in the city centre or at the airport and train stations. However, some companies, such as Adelaide Independent Taxis, Suburban Taxis, among others, may be well reached via phone or app.

Other option for lower fares is the rideshare company Uber.
