With fewer than half a million people, the 'little big city' of Bratislava ranks among Europe's most relaxed capitals since everything is in close vicinity or a short walk away. Vienna (80km) and Budapest (200km) — are also reachable by boat through the river Danube.

Slovakia's capital boasts an old-town charm, sophisticated restaurants, traditional pubs, good music ranging from jazz to opera, and an urban design that allows you to enjoy your visit without exhausting yourself. All this with Central Europe's greatest river as a backdrop.

THE CITY

emperorcasar/Shutterstock.com

The Capital of the Slovak Republic, Bratislava, also referred to as the Beauty on the Danube, can not only be filled with interesting history but is also the centre of the most dynamically developing region of central Europe at present.

Bratislava is situated in the south-west of Slovakia and stretches on both banks of the Danube and in the foothills of the Little Carpathian Mountains. Slovakia's borders with Hungary, to the south, and Austria, to the west, make it the only capital city to border two neighbouring countries. In addition, the Czech Republic is only 62 kilometres away. The Austrian capital Vienna is only 80 kilometres away by road, making them among the world's closest capital cities. Thanks to this favourable position it has always been a commercial centre. Today the historic places are witness to the rapid development of the young Slovak Republic.

In spite of its exciting history, Bratislava is one of the youngest capitals in the world and its population is also very young. The modern metropolis is open to Europe and to the world as proved by the increasing number of foreign visitors from many diverse countries. Palaces, modern shopping, works of art by Slovak chefs and brewers, friendly people and various international cultural or sport events, exhibitions, and business opportunities are the reasons why it is worth of visit.

DO & SEE

RossHelen/Shutterstock.com

Bratislava is not just the political but also the cultural and sporting capital of Slovakia. Owing to its historically multi-ethnic character, the city's cultural scene is a product of various influences: German, Slovak, Hungarian, and Jewish, among others. Bratislava boasts numerous theatres, museums, galleries, concert halls, cinemas, film clubs, and foreign cultural institutions.

It also has the country's biggest football and ice hockey teams, a purpose-built white-water rafting centre on the Danube, and numerous walking and cycling trails in or near the city. High-quality spa and relaxation facilities are increasingly popular throughout Slovakia and easily accessible. Bratislava has numerous coffee shops and restaurants, offering international as well as Slovak cuisine, including lively bars and clubs.

Bratislava Castle

This national historical monument has a strategic location which was settled in the Celtic and Great Moravian periods. The architecture of the massive rectangular castle with four corner towers was mostly influenced by reconstruction works during the Gothic and Renaissance periods and during the reign of Maria Theresa. In 1811, it burned down and was then reconstructed in the 1960s.

Danubiana Meulensteen Art Museum

This modern art gallery is located on the edge of a peninsula where the mighty Danube flows. It is one of the youngest museums of modern art in Europe. The River Danube has lent the museum its name and the rest is the result of the enthusiasm and initiative of the Slovak gallery owner Dr. Vincent Polakovič and the financial resources of the Dutch collector and art patron Gerard H. Meulensteen. It is also reachable by bike via a cycling path from Bratislava city centre.

Janko Král Park

Janko Král Park is a park in Bratislava's Petržalka borough, south of the Danube. It is located in the northern part of Petržalka, bordered by the Danube in the north, the Old Bridge access road in the east, a main road in the south and the Nový Most access road in the west.

Located between the Old and the New (SNP) Bridge, this is the oldest public park in Central Europe and one of the oldest central European parks. The massive trees are complemented by small architectural forms: the Gothic gazebo that was originally a tower of the Franciscan Church is the most notable example. Rest in the shade of ginkgo bilobas, dawn redwoods and the gigantic plane tree that is over 200 years old.

DINING

Eskymaks/Shutterstock.com

Local specialities include Halusky — small dumplings topped with cheese and bacon. Hungarian influences have added the much-needed spice to traditional Slovak cuisine. As far as international cuisine goes, there is plenty to choose from, as Bratislava builds a reputation as an eastern European capital of gastronomy.

Slovak Pub

Slovak Pub has, in its short history, become one of the favourite spots for college students. The first and probably the only pub in the world where you can get a free soup for an A on an exam. From the menu you can pick traditional Slovak dishes at reasonable prices. Its individual rooms present eras ranging from the old pagan times up until the revival era of the 19th century.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

David Vadkerti/Shutterstock.com

Bratislava has a growing number of good bars and is building a reputation as a nightlife capital. Top Slovak beers that are definitely worth a few rounds include Zlatý Bazant and Kelt.

In recent years, Bratislava's club scene has completely reinvented itself. In came DJs and funky cocktails, out went the go-go dancers and burly doormen. Listings detailing what's going on can be found throughout town.

The Dubliner

This is a very popular Irish pub that draws in the expats as well as locals. Typical of an Irish pub overseas, there is memorabilia galore.

There's even a cobbled street. Naturally, Guinness flows steadily from The Dubliner's enormous bar. Bands play most nights and the atmosphere is fittingly friendly and loud.

M. R. Štefánik Airport – Bratislava Airport (BTS)

M. R. Štefánik Airport (also known as Bratislava Airport) lies about 9-10 km northeast of the city centre, and the journey usually takes 15 to 20 minutes. Public bus 61 runs between the airport and the main train station during the day, while night bus N61 takes over after hours. The ride takes about 25-30 minutes, and tickets can be bought at vending machines or via the IDS BK app. Taxis and ride-hailing apps like Bolt and Uber are available just outside arrivals.

Public Transport

Most sights and places of interest can be found in the city centre, or within walking distance of the pedestrianised old town.

If you need to travel further afield within the city, the best way to do so is by public transport.

Bratislava has a comprehensive network of public transport lines running at regular intervals according to defined timetables. Departure times and a list of destinations, with the journey time to each, are posted for each service at every stop it serves.

Daytime operation: buses, trams and trolleybuses run from 5 am until 11:30 pm.

Tickets:

- one-way ticket valid for 15 min
- multiple-ride ticket valid for 60 min
- weekend multiple-ride ticket valid for 90min
- touristic ticket valid for 24, 48, 72 and 168 hours - unlimited travel
- children under 6 years of age travel for free

Nighttime operation: on selected bus routes from 11:30 pm until 3:30 am.

Tickets:

- night ticket valid for 90 min, multiple ride
- prepaid tickets (PCL) 30-, 90- and 365-day ticket (personal chip card is needed)
- touristic ticket valid for 24, 48, 72 and 168 hours - unlimited travel

Passengers are required to buy a ticket in a yellow ticket machine at a bus stop, at a newspaper kiosk or at a DPB shop before getting on board. Right after boarding the vehicle, passengers must stamp their ticket in the nearest stamping machine. A ticket that has not been stamped is not valid.

Ticket inspection

A passenger who cannot provide a valid ticket to the inspector will have to pay a fine in accordance with the currently valid public transport code.

Lost and found

In case of loss of personal belongings, the passenger must contact Dopravný podnik Bratislava.

Taxi

Unlike cities in other countries, in Slovakia, it is cheaper to order a taxi by phone than to hail one on the street. The price per kilometre varies from 0,50 Euro-cents and up. When getting one on the street, the price might be double or more. We highly recommend to agree on the price before getting in the car. Short distance trips are charged at minimum 4 EUR.

You can use apps like Hopin, Bolt (Taxify) and Uber in Slovakia.
