Cagayan de Oro is a modern, multi-cultural city located on the northern shores of Mindanao Island in the Philippines. It boasts gourmet restaurants, fine hotels, and is known as the shopping capital of the island. Dubbed 'the city of golden friendship' because of the hospitable nature of the Kagayanons, Cagayan de Oro always offers a special welcome to visitors from all over the world.

THE CITY

MaryTraveller/shutterstock

The name Cagayan de Oro, which literally means 'River of Gold', dates back to the arrival of the Spanish Augustinian Recollect friars in 1622. The area was already known as 'Cagayán'. Linguists believe the name comes from an ancient, lost word meaning river.

Known as the gateway to Northern Mindanao province thanks to its strategic location on the northern shores of Mindanao island, Cagayan de Oro is the capital of Misamis Oriental province and the regional government and commercial centre for Region 10, Northern Mindanao. It is a bustling, cosmopolitan city. Home to leading universities such as Capitol University, Xavier University (Ateneo de Cagayan), and Liceo de Cagayan University, Cagayan de Oro has a vibrant edge and a large student population, with bookshops on almost every corner.

The city is surrounded by vast plantations, including those of Bukidnon province, famous for its pineapples. Not to be confused with Cagayan province in Northern Luzon or the Cagayan Islands, Cagayan de Oro can trace its history back to the 1st century AD.

Little remains of the original city due to a fire that destroyed most of its buildings in 1901. As a result, Plaza Divisoria, a vast area of parks dividing the city, was designed and developed as a fire break. Today, it is where residents jog, read in the sunshine, or quietly contemplate. Within Plaza Divisoria is Bonifacio Park, where local soldiers who fought for the country are honoured.

DO & SEE

Gerald Yambao/pexels

The city offers residents and visitors many attractions, including fine restaurants, great hotels, and the chance to enjoy whitewater rafting and kayaking along the Cagayan de Oro River. Festivals, golf, spas and museums like La Castilla Museum and Museo de Oro, known for their antiquities, are also popular. Additionally, horse riding and trekking tours in Mapawa Nature Park are available. With numerous large malls, the city is the shopping mecca of the Mindanao region.

Malasag Eco-Tourism Village

This is a living museum designed to capture how the indigenous tribes of Mindanao island lived in centuries past, including replica houses and crafts, as well as regular tribal shows. The village stands in tropical gardens with panoramic views out over the coastline.

SHOPPING

gpoinstudio/shutterstock

Cagayan de Oro is famous for being 'the' place to shop in Northern Mindanao. Shopping Centres and boutiques dominate the city centre, and it's possible to find just about everything from crazy fashion items to works of art, household items and electrical appliances.

Some of the popular shopping areas are located along Don Apolinar Velez Street and Jr Borja Street. Among the shopping centres, the first and one of the largest is the landmark Limketkai Center in Lapanan neighbourhood. It has department stores and countless shops selling clothes and accessories, mobile phones and home design items, as well as restaurants, cinemas and play areas for children. Visitors can get their eyes tested, have a spa treatment, do some banking and have their photos printed too. An atrium in the centre often hosts exhibitions and concerts.

Other malls include Gaisano City Mall on C.M. Recto Avenue, two Ororama Supercenters, and the SM chopping centres, and the Pueblo Business Park. The city has many markets too, the most notable being the city centre Cogon Public Market.

Divisoria Night Market

Plaza Divisoria comes alive after sundown when dozens of vendors set up shop in the street (selling clothes, accessories and various knick knacks) and fast food stalls operate in full mode. Live music is played, and the area is closed off to traffic every weekend after 6pm.

Laguindingan Airport (CGY)

Laguindingan International Airport (CGY) opened in 2013 and is the first international airport in the region, replacing the old Lumbia Airport. It is located 46 kilometres from the city centre of Cagayan de Oro.

The easiest way to get from the airport to the city centre is by taxi, but be sure that the driver uses the meter.

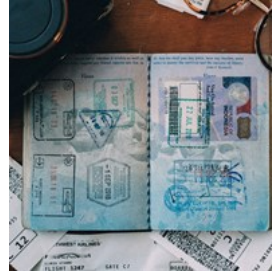

There are also several different shuttle van companies outside the terminal.

Passport / Visa

The Philippines can be visited visa-free for up to 30 days by citizens of all European Union member states, all ASEAN member states, the UK, the USA, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, South Korea, South Africa, Malaysia, Israel, the UAE and most countries in Latin America. A valid return or onward ticket and a passport that is valid upon entry and for at least six months beyond the period of stay are required to enter the Philippines. If you are unsure whether or not you need to apply for a visa, contact the embassy or consulate in your country.

Public Transport

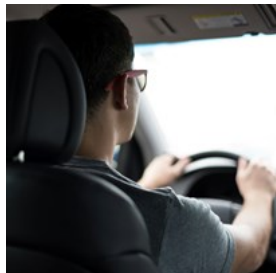

Getting around Cagayan de Oro is straightforward, with most people taking a taxi, jeepney or a motorela. White and yellow coloured taxis are seen almost everywhere around the city. Always insist on using the meter.

The more adventurous forms of transport are the Jeepneys — brightly coloured ex-army vehicles — motorelas, which are a type of covered motorcycle. Always have coins with you to pay as drivers do not always have much change.

Taxi

The simplest but not always the fastest way to get around is by taxi. Always check the meter has been set or a price has been fixed. Some taxi's are unlicensed and in a bad state of repair and these should be avoided.

The best app for summoning a taxi in the Philippines is Grab.

Post

In the Philippines, the postal system operates through PHLPost, which manages mail delivery and services across the archipelago. For travellers in Cagayan de Oro, postal services are easily accessible at post offices and postal kiosks, ideal for sending postcards and parcels. Rates are reasonable, and services are reliable, though delivery times can vary, especially for international mail.
