Visit Mechelen

Museum Hof van Busleyden/Visit Mechelen

‘Mechelaars’ talk about their city with great pride and warmth. Visitors are struck by the genial atmosphere as they stroll past monuments redolent with age and pause in courtyards and historic churches. The locals are proud of Gouden Carolus — the award-winning beer brewed here for centuries. They are proud of Margaretha van Mechelen, who put 16th-century Mechelen on the world map. And they have a soft spot for craftsmanship and authentic local products. Come to Mechelen and experience its charms for yourself!

THE CITY

Visit Mechelen

Mechelen is situated in the heart of Flanders, mid-way between Antwerp and Brussels and just 15 minutes' drive from Brussels Airport. From neighbouring countries you'll be there in no time. So whether you are travelling by plane, train or car, Mechelen enjoys the ideal location.

The people of Mechelen take pride in their more than 300 listed buildings and four mentions on the UNESCO world heritage list. The most famous of these has to be St Rumbold's Tower. Count to 538 and you'll have Mechelen at your feet. The Skywalk at the top of the tower affords breathtaking views. On the way up, you can stop and catch your breath in six magnificent rooms and admire from close to the tower clock and not one, but two carillons. And with a spot of luck, you'll be able to exchange a few words with the tower keeper. What better way to start your visit to Mechelen!

The city centre boasts no fewer than eight historic churches, each with an intimate but very different interior. Stroll beneath Gothic arches, admire paintings by Rubens and Van Dyck, and in your mind's eye reach out and caress the baroque sculptures.

Tapestry-lovers the world over flock to Mechelen, for the city is home to a world-famous manufacturer. There are also family businesses passed down from one generation to the next and artisanal workshops which will open their doors specially for you, welcoming you into an authentic world where the master artist is your guide! On the edge of the beguinage you'll find Het Anker brewery, where Gouden Carolus and Maneblusser have been lovingly brewed for five generations. Do as Charles V did in the sixteenth century: allow the beer to roll over your tongue. Cheers!

NATURE IN & AROUND MECHELEN

Toerisme Mechelen

Botanical Garden

The Botanical Garden or 'Botanique' is steeped in history. From the Middle Ages this green oasis was the garden of the former 'commanderij van Pitzemburg', order of knights. After its abolition, in the nineteenth century the garden was turned into an English landscape garden for members of the elitist Société Royale d'Horticulture. After the First World War it opened to the public as a municipal park.

In the middle of the Botanical Garden is a statue of the celebrated scientist Rembert Dodoens. In the sixteenth century he wrote a highly acclaimed herbal called the 'Cruydenboek'. These days the Botanical Garden is a quiet and very pleasant park where you can enjoy the plant life while the children let off steam in the playground.

Silent Garden Archiepiscopal Palace

A green lung right in the heart of the city. There are several already, but from April 1st you will also be able to enjoy the tranquillity of the Silent Garden at the Archiepiscopal Palace. This green space located between the Wollemarkt and Schoutetstraat will be open three days a week. Take a stroll in the garden and admire the sheds, the Lourdes grottoes, the pavilion but also the garden wall itself, all of which have just been restored.

With the emphasis on silence, this little oasis right under St Rumbold's Tower is just the place to switch off the technology and unwind.

Address: Schoutetstraat, 2800 Mechelen
Opening hours: From April 1st to September 30th on Saturdays and Sundays from 9 to 19.00 hrs and on Wednesday afternoons from 13 to 19.00 hrs. The rest of the year the garden will be open until 17.00 hrs.

Vrijbroek Park

The 50-hectare-plus Vrijbroek Park is situated on the outskirts of the city. It is the ideal place to walk, kick a football around or read. A visit to the magnificent rose garden is highly recommended, even if only for the seductive scent of the more than 100 different species of rose! In 2003 the World Federation of Rose Societies granted it the 'Award of Garden Excellence'.

A great effort has been made to make visits informative, so for example you will find name-plates all over the garden as well as brochures of walks.

Tivoli Domain

Tivoli park was once the grounds of a castle barely two kilometres from the historic centre of Mechelen. These days you can enjoy a quiet stroll here across the large expanses of grass, past ancient trees, a highly-scented rose garden, a herb garden and other delightful nooks.

Now pure white again, in 1990 the famous Belgian artist Jan Fabre wrapped the castle in sheets of paper covered with ballpoint lines for which 150,000 blue pens were required! Since 1991 the mansion has housed a catering establishment specializing in parties, seminars and the like.

Drinks, snacks and lunches are served to the general public in the adjoining orangery. Small children will love meeting a whole variety of farm animals on the children's farm. Other attractions include the large bee colony and the educational nature trail where signs draw your attention to aspects of the park's history, fauna and flora.

Eglegem Lake

Eglegem Lake, a large expanse of water, also popularly known as 'de put' or 'the pit', came into being when the E19 motorway was constructed. It is now a wonderful nature reserve where you can sail, windsurf and fish. Walking and cycling enthusiasts will be in their element too! The walk round the lake is about 3 kilometres.

Palace of Margaret of Austria

History and architecture enthusiasts will feel at home in Mechelen straightaway, particularly when it comes to viewing the palaces of Margaret of York and Margaret of Austria! The residence of the regent Margaret of Austria, the Court of Savoy, was the first renaissance building in the Low Countries. The picturesque garden is a wonderfully peaceful place. On the other side of the street is what remains of the Palace of Margaret of York.

Dyle path

The people of Mechelen like to enjoy their city and why not! A walk alongside the water in the heart of the city is a unique and relaxing experience, particularly if you walk over the floating part of the Dyle Path! The path leads past (and over) the Dyle, between Haverwerf and the Botanical Garden. See a different side of Mechelen — the backs of the old houses! The many water birds make it atmospheric and fun for children too.

In the footsteps of Margareta

Travel five hundred years back in time to the days when Mechelen was the capital of the Netherlands. As the city was also the seat of Margareta of Austria's court, scores of Burgundian noblemen settled here too.

This prosperous period left its mark on the city and traces of it have survived to this day, including Burgundian palaces, historic churches, wooden façades and sumptuously decorated guildhalls. This handy brochure takes you back to that rich Burgundian era.

The eight historical churches

Mechelen has churches galore and each contains a profusion of religious treasures. There are no fewer than eight historical churches in the city centre, each well worth a visit! The coloured light which filters through the stained-glass windows and the serene atmosphere which pervades the buildings make a visit a very special experience. The churches also contain works of art, including famous paintings by Rubens and Van Dyck. The latter provided St Rumbold's Cathedral with a veritable masterpiece: the 'Crucifixion of Christ'.

The Fish Market and Lamot site

If you'd like to see something of authentic Mechelen, do as the Mechelaars do and soak up the atmosphere around Lamot brewery.

The old brewery was converted into an ultramodern conference and heritage centre and is a wonderful example of how our industrial heritage can be put to new use. For Mechelen's trendiest spots, head for the convivial Vismarkt - or Fish Market - on the other side of the Dyle. When the sun's out, it's a great place to enjoy it.

Haverwerf

Originally oats were unloaded and traded here. Oats used to be synonymous with grain and Mechelen had the exclusive staple rights to grain. Boats carrying grain had to tie up in Mechelen and offer the whole cargo for sale for three whole days.

You can't fail to notice the three houses near the bridge. They date from the 16th and 17th centuries. The corner house is called Het Paradijske, Little Paradise. The reliefs above the windows depict the scenes 'Earthly paradise' and 'The tree of knowledge of good and evil'. In the middle is De Duiveltjes, The Little Devils, one of the most beautiful wooden façades in the country. We know that it used to be called De Verloren Zoon, The Prodigal Son, because the story is depicted above the front door. Enjoy the waterside!

Zoutwerf

When the city acquired the staple for salt in 1301, the historic quay on the Grootbrug or Large Bridge was renamed the 'Zoutwerf' or Salt Wharf.

You will immediately notice the two authentic façades of 'De Waag' and 'De Steur'. De Steur served as a warehouse, while the goods were weighed in De Waag ('Weighhouse'). Another striking building is the former guildhall of the fishmongers, 'In den Grooten Zalm' - In the Large Salmon. The 'Innehuysken' to the right of 'De Waag' is where the 'innegeld' - 'monies received' - was paid, an early form of taxation. The building was destroyed by fire in the 17th century, but the fishmongers pulled together, rebuilt it and renamed it 'De Kleine Zalm', 'The Small Salmon'.

Foodmarket: De Vleeshalle

The concept "Shop-Taste-Meet" brings people together in the unique historical framework of "De Vleeshalle", an old market hall build in 1881. All your senses kick in here: sight, sound, smell and of course taste! You'll be amazed at the wide range of authentic and irresistible foods available in the former 'Meat Hall'. Doing your regular shop here is a far cry from the supermarket routine. It's an experience to relish!

Royal Manufacturers De Wit

The world-famous De Wit Royal Manufacturers of Tapestry is an absolute 'must'. For four generations antique tapestries have been cleaned and conserved here using state-of-the-art technology. On Saturday mornings visitors can take a look inside the workshop and watch a weaving demonstration.

The House of Refuge of Tongerlo Abbey dates from the 15th century. These days the building houses the Royal Manufacturers De Wit, a world-famous tapestry- weaving and restoration workshop. If the gate is open, step into the beautiful garden. You will see a number of plants growing which are depicted on historical tapestries.

Aldermen's Building

As the first stone town hall to be built in Flanders, Mechelen's Schepenhuis is steeped in history. In the 13th century it served as the town hall and meeting place of the municipal court of justice and in the 15th century as the seat of the Great Council and the Parliament of Mechelen.

Municipal academy, museum, city archive and city library, the building went on to perform numerous other roles. In September 2018 the building saw its latest incarnation as the brand-new home of Visit Mechelen, the tourist information office. It is manned by experts on the local area who help visitors get the most out of their visit to Mechelen, so it is the ideal first port of call. It is also conveniently located between the four central points of the city: the Grote Markt, IJzerenleen, St Rumbold's Tower and the Bruul.

Town Hall

The modern-day town hall is actually two buildings: Cloth Hall with its unfinished belfry (recognised by UNESCO) and the Palace of the Great Council. But in fact Mechelen has three town halls: the old Schepenhuis or Aldermen's House, Huis Den Beyaert and the modern-day town hall. Then there is the Huis van de Mechelaar, the brand-new administrative centre.

Winter Garden of the Ursuline nuns

We have no idea what prompted the Ursuline nuns in Onze-Lieve-Vrouw-Waver to make the rather bold decision to build this truly magnificent Art Nouveau building. After all, this style was considered hyper-modern in 1900. And yet, this enchanting Winter Garden with its colourful stained glass cupola was considered the most stunning feature of their boarding school. What's even more intriguing is that nobody knows who designed the Winter Garden. And yet the architect's design skills are unparalleled.

Don't believe us? Well, come take a look for yourself because this is Art Nouveau at its most resplendent.

House of Refuge of St Trond's Abbey

Very early on the abbots of abbeys and monasteries had refuges built in the walled towns where they could stay during a visit to that town or on their way to their often extensive landed estates. In times of war, these refuges also offered protection. The House of Refuge of St Trond's Abbey was established by the Benedictine Abbey in the 16th century to improve contact between the abbey and the archbishop. These days this beautiful building is part of the archbishop's palace to which it is linked by means of a covered bridge.

The Cells

In the shadow of St Rumbold's Tower is a unique historical monument. 'De Cellekens' was originally a charitable institution which took in needy women without a family to care for them. The three wings form a U-shape around the magnificent enclosed garden. Originally each door provided access to two small rooms with bed, cupboard, chair and table. The institution derives its name from these little 'cells'.

'De Cellekens' was empty for a long time but then the new owners, artist Mariette Teugels and her photographer husband Herman Smet, restored the building. You can see some of Mariette Teugels' work in the new garden.

Grootbrug

The Grootbrug or Large Bridge, also known as the Hoogbrug - High Bridge, connects the IJzerenleen on the other side with the Korenmarkt. This sandstone structure dating from the thirteenth century is the oldest stone bridge in Flanders. The Grootbrug used to be a toll bridge; payment was exacted both on the water and on the street. The bases of two small defence towers are still visible. The Guldenstraat, Korenmarkt and Hoogstraat lead in a direct line from the Grootbrug to the Brusselpoort, the only surviving city gate.

Groen Waterke

There are many idyllic spots in Mechelen and Groen Waterke is one of them. The brook owes its name to the duckweed which covers the surface of the water. It is in fact the remains of the Melaan brook which was not covered over or filled in here. Enjoy the peace and quiet of this idyllic spot, close to the houses of refuge of St

Trond and Tongerlo abbeys.

Watch Museum & Clock Clinic

The Watch Museum is a museum with a difference. The Op de Beeck family restores antique clocks and watches and over the centuries has amassed a large collection of timepieces dating from 1600 to the present day. The collection contains extraordinary tower clocks, mystery clocks, sundials and much much more. To find out just how much more, you'll have to pay a visit to this atmospheric museum! You can even have a guided tour. But keep an eye on the time!

The Mad Art Collection

This historical building houses a museum with a permanent collection of sixteenth-century paintings. What makes the collection unique is that each painting contains a satirical and moralising reference to 'madness'. There are paintings in the style of Hieronymus Bosch, Bruegel and Brouwer illustrating reprehensible behaviour and the appropriate punishment. You'll have fun trying to work out the meaning of all the symbols.

DINING

Visit Mechelen

Mechelaars love their food and you only really get to know the people when you eat what they eat! In the heart of the vegetable-growing region there is always something to make you lick your lips! But if the Mechelaar might give you a tip, try the city's most famous speciality: an absolutely delicious 'Mechelse koekoek', the native chicken, washed down with the local beer, the Gouden Carolus. Mechelen at its best.

Brasserie Het Anker

Brasserie Het Anker has provided a unique taste experience for generations. In this brasserie several beers are permanently on tap and of course you can also choose from numerous seasonal beers. The kitchen prepares a variety of beer-based dishes. The menu suggests the perfect beer for each dish. Terrace & WIFI.

LUNCH CAFES

Layla Aerts/Visit Mechelen

Coffee is in! Like other cities, Mechelen is awash with espresso bars, slow coffees and baristas. Whether your preference is for an attractive bar, coffee shop, tea house or a brasserie for a lunchtime or afternoon snack, you're sure to find what you are looking for in Mechelen.

Beans

Beans is a convivial espresso bar on the Ijzerenleen. Sarah, a real barista, will prepare the perfect cup of coffee for you using freshly-ground beans. She loves what she does and you can taste that in every cup! You'll discover some surprising blends too. Be sure to try the Brazilian Bomb, an award-winning latte macchiato with hazelnut syrup and Brazil nuts.

Brasserie Het Anker

Het Anker comprises not only a brewery and a hotel, but also a large brasserie serving a typical Belgian beer-based cuisine. Each dish is prepared with one of Het Anker's beers. The brasserie was recently renovated, but still exudes the authentic atmosphere of a 'brown café'. The speciality of the house is the 'Mechels stoofpotje', a stew prepared using Carolus beer. But Mechelen's most typical dish - 'Mechelse koekoek' - is also on the menu and well worth trying.

De Zondvloed

De Zondvloed is a unique concept in Flanders. The shop is stacked floor to ceiling with new and second-hand books and remainders and on the top floor is a coffee salon, serving healthy juices, but also novelties like Iranian tea. So here you can enjoy a quiet drink, while leafing through the newspaper or just chilling out.

Le Pain Quotidien

The founder of the Le Pain Quotidien chain, Alain Coumont, so longed for the sort of rustic bread made from natural ingredients he had loved as a child that he opened a bakery that bakes bread in an artisanal and labour-intensive manner. Take a seat at the communal table and try the brownies-with-a-difference, made without flour, or an irresistible chocolate bomb.

Sister Bean

Two sisters, Marijke and Sara, brought the conviviality of Limburg with them to Mechelen and gave their coffee bar a warm, homely feel. The interior is vintage and has a couple of cosy corners where you can sit over a cup of coffee, guzzle cakes and put the world to rights. The coffee cocktails, served in real cocktail glasses, have proved a particular hit.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

Visit Mechelen - Layla Aerts

Part of what makes Mechelen so convivial is its human scale. Rather than packing into large dance halls and nightclubs, in the evenings people tend to gather in the many atmospheric cafés and bars. Many of these provide live music, particularly in the summer months. The area best known for its nightlife is the Vismarkt or old fish market, which abounds in relaxed cafés for all age groups. The dynamism of the Vismarkt spills over into the surrounding Korenmarkt, Onze-Lieve-Vrouwestraat, Begijnenstraat and Melaan. Students tend to converge on the area around the station.

't Ankertje aan de Dijle

't Ankertje aan de Dijle is a convivial, brown 'discussion café' in an eighteenth-century, late-baroque building.

The café serves all the Het Anker brewery's beers, which it also sells in a beer shop. Curiosities relating to beer and Mechelen's breweries adorn the walls. There is always a jazz, groove or blues band on the first Monday in the month.

Barramundo Lounge

Barramundo is a household name in Mechelen. It could rightly claim to be the hippest lounge, cocktail and champagne bar in Mechelen and beyond. You can also choose from 25 whiskies and five sorts of cognac. On weekdays the atmosphere is 'loungy', but things hot up at weekends when you can expect house and dance music. Another draw on summer days is the wonderful inner terrace with separate bar.

SHOPPING

Visit Mechelen

There are any number of reasons for choosing Mechelen as your shopping destination! For one thing, here you escape the hustle and bustle and shop against a backdrop of historic architecture rather than traffic! What is more, the shops are all within easy walking distance of each other. Most are concentrated in the Bruul - Ijzerenleen - Onze-Lieve-Vrouwestraat triangle and side streets where traffic is restricted. High-street chains and chic boutiques stand shoulder to shoulder with traditional specialist shops. So Mechelen has something for everyone: from trendy to classic, from vintage to cutting-edge.

Matthys the Baker's

A household name in Mechelen for twenty years, traditional baker's Matthys is synonymous with delicious products prepared with tender loving care, like the typical Flemish 'vloerbrood' - bread baked on the stone floor of the oven - and traditional 'pistolet' rolls. Moreover, all the ingredients, such as custard and leaven, are homemade. Baker Willem Matthys is the fourth generation of bakers, which makes Bakkerij Matthys a truly traditional establishment!

The speciality is the pointed shortbread called 'Mechels Torentje'. The stone pride of Mechelen, St Rumbold's Tower has been transformed into a delicious crunchy biscuit.

Huis Inge Goderis

It was Maria Petit, the great grandmother of the current owner Inge Goderis, who established the original shop in Lange Nieuwstraat in Mechelen in the early 1900s. In those days it sold not just knitting wool and sewing cotton but also groceries, etc. The business has always been passed down from mother to daughter and gradually began to specialize in needlecrafts in the broadest possible sense.

Lenaerts leather goods

In 1870, five generations ago, craftsman Willem Lenaerts set up a saddlery and leather business in Mechelen's beguinage. It was handed down from father to son and survived two world wars. In 1904 the shop moved to No. 17 Bruul where, thanks partly to an excellent after-sales service, subsequent generations managed to survive amidst the growing number of chain stores. Lenaerts specializes in handbags, rucksacks, suitcases, computer bags, umbrellas and small leather items and is a household name in the wider region around Mechelen.

Simon Lévelt

At Simon Lévelt you can choose from 30 different sorts of coffee and more than 150 different sorts of tea and most of them are organic and fair trade.

That may sound rather a lot to choose from, but Simon Lévelt will advise you and you can always settle for a few smaller 'tester packets'.

Simon Lévelt also sells a special Mechelen blend of coffee, the 'Taste of Mechelen', and a Mechelen tea, the 'Wonder of Mechelen' with dreamy hints of bergamot, orange blossom and lavender.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Brussels Airport (BRU)

Brussels Airport (BRU), Belgium's primary international hub, lies 12 kilometres northeast of Brussels and 20 kilometres from Mechelen. The most efficient connection is the direct train from the airport's underground station (accessible via lifts/escalators from departures). The ride to Mechelen takes under 20 minutes, with frequent departures.

For road transport, licensed taxis, identifiable by blue-and-yellow logos and 'T' licence plates, queue outside arrivals. Fixed fares to Mechelen average €50-60 for the 25-minute journey. Budget travellers can opt for DeLijn buses (stop at level 0), though routes to Mechelen require transfers.

Those continuing internationally will find FlixBus coaches at the same level, serving major European cities.

More Info: Sometimes called Brussels-Zaventem Airport.

Charleroi Airport (CRL)

Charleroi Airport, somewhat confusingly called Brussels South Charleroi Airport, is the second-busiest airport in Belgium, with the majority of flights operated by Wizzair and Ryanair.

Several bus lines connect the airport to Charleroi

Central station. The ride takes 20 minutes and the buses run from 4:30am to 11:30pm.

The trip between Charleroi Airport and Mechelen usually takes less than 2 hours.

Antwerp International Airport (ANR)

Antwerp Airport offers a streamlined alternative to larger hubs, with ultra-efficient processing times. Passengers can check in as late as 20 minutes before departure, while arrivals typically exit the terminal within 10 minutes of landing. The compact layout eliminates lengthy transfers between gates and aircraft.

Most services are seasonal charter flights operated by Tui Fly. Ground connections are straightforward: a combination of bus and train reaches Mechelen in under 30 minutes.

Passport & Visa

Citizens of European Union (EU) and European Economic Area (EEA) countries do not need a visa to enter Belgium, only a valid ID. Many other countries, including the United Kingdom, United States, Canada, United Arab Emirates, Australia, and New Zealand, benefit from visa-free entry for short stays of up to 90 days within a 180-day period.

Visitors from visa-exempt countries must hold a valid passport and, starting in late 2025, will need to apply for an ETIAS (European Travel Information and Authorisation System) authorisation online before travelling.

For those requiring a visa, such as travellers from some Middle-East, African or Asian nations, a Schengen visa must be obtained prior to arrival. All travellers should ensure their passport is valid for at least three months beyond their intended stay.

Public Transport

From one side of Mechelen city centre to the other is approximately 1.5 kilometres, so easily walkable. It takes just 15 minutes from the outskirts to the heart of the city and you can enjoy the city along the way.

There are several places where you can rent a bicycle in Mechelen. You would be well advised to check in advance that the firm has bicycles available. Bicycles cost about €10 a day to hire, but the price varies greatly from one supplier to another.

Mechelen lends itself perfectly to short bus rides. There are even special cheap fares to cover short journeys, a single ticket costing €3. A day ticket, which allows you to use the bus as many times as you like, costs €9, and a 3-day pass is €18.

De Lijn operates regional and city buses. On the regional lines, buses depart approximately once an hour on the urban lines usually every fifteen minutes. There is a reduced service at weekends and during the school holidays.

Central Station is walking distance from the Grote Markt, but buses do run between the two locations.

Taxi

Taxis are expensive. For a short ride of 5 kilometres you will easily pay €10. But if you are planning to have a drink while you're out, a taxi is the perfect solution. A TOV ticket enables you to combine the bus and the taxi. You get €2 discount on the taxi journey on presentation of your bus ticket. Note that not all the taxi companies accept the TOV ticket.

At Mechelen station you will find one or more taxis at the taxi ranks near the station exit on Koning Albertplein. There are also parking places for taxis in other parts of the city, but you will not necessarily find a taxi there. You might do best to book a taxi with one of Mechelen's taxi companies.
