THE CITY

München Tourismus

Way back in the 8th century, what is now the capital of the Free State of Bavaria was a friar settlement, known as 'zu den Munichen' — to the monks! The city's roots date back to the establishment of a monastery in 1158. Later, in 1506, the oldest German food law was enacted here, which is still valid today — the Bavarian Purity Law.

Schwabing is a good starting point for a tour of the city, traditionally well-known for its many pubs and nightspots. Many students also live here, as the university is just a stone's throw away. When thinking of Nymphenburg, the palace and surrounding villas come to mind, while Haidhausen, which is becoming increasingly popular as a residential area, is more of a cultural and art district. In the city centre, many churches (including the cathedral) and small palaces are open for visitors. The Englischer Garten, Munich's green lung, is a 3.7 square kilometre park in the middle of the city. It borders the Isar river and is popular with joggers, sun worshippers, and anyone who just wants to stroll around or have a picnic.

DO & SEE

München Tourismus

Munich has come to be associated with Oktoberfest, the Hofbräuhaus, the Olympic grounds, and the Fasching carnival. However, Munich also has an international reputation as a city of both art and culture. Its music scene ranges from classical to jazz and pop. What's more, it boasts numerous museums showcasing impressive collections.

Old Town Hall & Toy Museum

The Old Town Hall, an elegant example of Bavarian Gothic, serves as a focal point at the eastern end of the Marienplatz. The tower houses the Toy Museum (Spielzeugmuseum), and the ballroom on the second floor. The building stands out for its architectural design and wooden ceilings.

Neues Rathaus & Glockenspiel

The Marienplatz is the heart of Munich and the site of the world-famous Glockenspiel. Daily, at 11am and noon, and additionally in summer at 5pm, the mechanical dancers in the tower of the New Town Hall come to life when the clock chimes. The building's neo-Gothic facade is a favourite background for souvenir photos. Climb to the top of the 85-metre tower for a beautiful view of the city.

Neuschwanstein Castle & Linderhof Palace Day Tour

Witness the Neuschwanstein fairytale castle that inspired Disney's Sleeping Beauty Castle, as well as the Linderhof Palace on a magical day trip from Munich.

Built by Germany's King Ludwig II on a rugged hill against a backdrop of Bavaria's lush and picturesque mountain scenery, the Schloss Neuschwanstein is a stunning piece of architecture, which one could literally spend hours staring at. The Linderhof Palace, the smallest of the three palaces associated with King Ludwig II, served as his primary residence for much of his life.

EVENTS

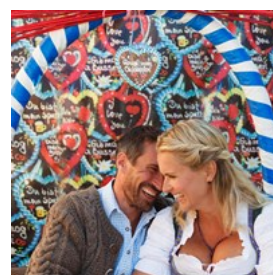

Dominik Parzinger/München Tourismus

Munich offers a large selection of events when it comes to art, music, sports and traditional festivals. The Oktoberfest stands out as the world's largest beer festival, with a smaller-scale version held in April.

Additionally, the city hosts the Munich Film Festival, showcasing international cinema, the vibrant Tollwood festival in summer, and the iconic German Christmas markets during the holiday season.

Oktoberfest

Starting in the second half of September and spanning 16 days, Munich's Theresienwiese transforms into something that might seem like the world's largest fun fair. The Oktoberfest is primarily a beer festival, yet it also features numerous stalls, events, and exciting attractions to explore.

Don't miss the Bavaria statue and the Hall of Fame sitting on the hill overlooking the Theresienwiese. The Bavaria is considered the first colossal sculpture of the Modern Age, while the Hall of Fame is an impressive columned hall built to honour significant figures from Bavaria.

Auer Dult Pottery Market

The Auer Dulten are traditional fairs held at Mariahilfplatz square in Munich. They take place for nine days, three times a year, offering food, drink, shopping, or simply a leisurely stroll.

Dating back to medieval times, the market retains the character of a folk festival. It covers approximately 22,000 square metres of fairground, creating an island of fun and cosy atmosphere in the heart of the city. The May Dult kicks off towards the end of April, followed by the Jakobi Dult in the last week of July, and the Kirchweih Dult in mid-October.

DINING

Christian Kasper/München Tourismus

While Munich is renowned for its beer culture, Bavarian cuisine offers a diverse range of delights beyond brews. The Schwabing district and Marienplatz are two standout neighbourhoods to explore dining options.

When it comes to local cuisine, one highly recommended dish is Schweinshaxe, a succulent roasted pork hock typically served with sauerkraut and Knödel, traditional boiled dumplings. For those with a sweet tooth, the German apple strudel or the iconic Lebkuchen, especially at Christmas, is a must.

Hofbräuhaus

Located close to Marienplatz, Hofbräuhaus is one of Munich's most renowned and popular restaurants, offering authentic German cuisine. The restaurant occasionally features live German music performances. Interestingly, its brewery has inspired numerous song lyrics over the years.

Airbräu

Why wait to dive into Bavarian culture?

Airbräu, the world's first airport brewery, lets you clink Maß glasses mere steps from your arrival gate.

Since 1999, this sprawling beer garden has been brewing traditional beers under the Reinheitsgebot (German Beer Purity Law), with copper kettles gleaming proudly beside wooden benches.

The menu is a greatest hits of Bavarian comfort food: think crispy pork knuckle, giant pretzels, and Obatzda cheese spread. Whether killing a layover or kicking off a trip, it's a euphoric introduction to Munich's beer scene. Just follow the scent of hops and roasted meat; it's impossible to miss.

CAFÉS

München Tourismus

The aroma of freshly baked pastries and strong coffee permeates the pavements of Munich, enticing pedestrians from all walks of life to come and enjoy some of the famous Bavarian delicacies in a comfortable and refreshing atmosphere. The cafe menus in Munich range from the tried-and-tested classics, such as the traditional fried dough of Frischhut, to the more modern innovations from Maelu, where colour and taste collide to create some dazzling sweets. The juxtaposition of tradition and innovation seems to be perfectly balanced in Munich, as does the mix of ingredients, which are often sustainably sourced in most of the better-known cafes. Everything has a story in Munich, just ask the barista.

Café am Beethovenplatz

In Munich's oldest concert café you can enjoy breakfast, brunch or a coffee and cake whilst listening to Chopin or Mozart from a live pianist. If you come for breakfast at Café am Beethovenplatz you are treated to homemade marmalade, whereas if it's brunch you're after then be prepared for a tall order of fresh fruits and deli meats. The ambiance here is very special, with Art Nouveau flair and Bohemian charm oozing out of the place.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

München Tourismus

Football players, musicians, and media elite, Munich's nightlife is swarming with celebrities. The city offers a large selection of trendy bars & nightclubs, not to mention iconic beer halls and gardens, which you simply cannot leave the city without visiting.

Gärtnerplatz District

This hip district is full of trendy bars, cafés, and restaurants so you can pick whatever fits your mood on the fly.

Gärtnerplatz was named after famous architect Friedrich von Gärtner who played a pivotal role in the resurgence of the district, turning it into a bustling nighttime destination. Night owls can enjoy everything from musical theatre to heavy techno here, as young and old come together somewhere in between the lush gardens of the neighbourhood.

Falk's Bar

The Baroque decor and hall of mirrors in Falk's Bar are the only original features that remain of Hotel Bayerischer Hof, most of which were destroyed during the Second World War. The cocktails and long drinks here are expertly crafted by the all-knowing bar staff who can mix together just about anything. Once guests have enjoyed a drink or two in the bar, they can either move on to the adjoining cinema room or the roof terrace upstairs.

Pusser's

The so-called 'Cradle of American bar culture in Germany' has been serving up its signature PUSSEY'S PAINKILLER™ since 1974 to thirsty customers who are looking to relax in the ambiance of Pusser's authentic, cultured establishment. Live piano music here goes very nicely with the drinks menu and the spicy bar food is a consistent classic with the old heads who frequent the bar. Do a deep dive into the history of Pusser's 300 year old rum business to gain insight into how their recipe has evolved through the years.

Zephyr

Bring a camera to capture this picturesque cocktail lab in all its glory whilst sipping on a refreshing blend of colourful ingredients that taste as good as they look. Zephyr is a chic, exclusive joint that may cost a bit more than other bars in the area but most people who have been there can agree that it is worth the extra few euros (cash only here). The staff are a breath of fresh air as well which just makes the experience so much more palatable.

Passport & Visa

Citizens of European Union (EU) and European Economic Area (EEA) countries do not need a visa to enter Germany, only a valid ID. Many other countries, including the United Kingdom, United States, Canada, United Arab Emirates, Australia, and New Zealand, benefit from visa-free entry for short stays of up to 90 days within a 180-day period.

Visitors from visa-exempt countries must hold a valid passport and, starting in late 2025, will need to apply for an ETIAS (European Travel Information and Authorisation System) authorisation online before travelling.

For those requiring a visa, such as travellers from some Middle-East, African or Asian nations, a Schengen visa must be obtained prior to arrival. All travellers should ensure their passport is valid for at least three months beyond their intended stay.
