Zürich runs on punctual trams and Swiss precision, but it also runs on lake swims, quiet sophistication, and a love of design that shows up everywhere from museums to street corners. Indie shops now fill old guild buildings, the river turns into a hangout spot as soon as the sun is out, and nightlife pulses under stone arches in once-industrial districts. Between modern museums, lakeside strolls, and mountain views that steal the show, Zürich balances city polish with an easy, effortless charm.

THE CITY

RossHelen/Shutterstock

Zurich began as a Roman settlement on the Limmat, later growing into a medieval trading hub with guilds shaping much of the city's character and architecture. Over the centuries, it became a centre of learning and religion, playing a major role in the Reformation under Ulrich Zwingli.

As Switzerland stayed neutral through modern conflicts, Zurich developed into a global financial centre. Banking and finance still have a strong presence, but the city today feels more well-rounded than that suggests. Tech firms, universities and research institutions sit alongside historic churches, small cafés, and riverside walkways.

The Limmat splits the city into two. On the east bank, Niederdorf has narrow lanes, student hangouts, and the twin towers of Grossmünster watching over it. The west side includes Lindenhof, once a Roman fort and now a quiet lookout above the Old Town. Busy Bahnhofstrasse runs nearby, following the line of the old city walls and filled with everything from luxury brands to Swiss department stores.

Modern Zurich is clean, relaxed and easy to explore on foot, with the lake on one side and hills just beyond. It's a mix of historic streets, design-focused neighbourhoods, lakefront promenades and cafés where office workers and students sit side by side, a city that balances old-world calm with a forward-looking edge.

SUSTAINABLE CITY

Evan Bollag/unsplash.com

Zürich is consistently ranked among the world's most environmentally conscious cities. The majority of the city's electrical power now comes from renewable energy sources, and almost half of the waste gets recycled. Zürich is committed to a 2000-Watt Society plan for radically reducing both energy use and carbon emissions.

The city has a complex approach when it comes to sustainability. Zürich constructions are encouraged to build up and conserve available natural spaces to promote walking and biking within the city. The use of concrete as a building material is reduced to lower carbon emissions. The city has the highest water quality standard in the world, both for drinking and bathing. The air quality is continuously improving — micro-particle emissions have been reduced by 50% in the past 25 years. Zürich greenbelt projects allow free movement of indigenous species throughout the region, maintaining biodiversity.

As a tourist, you can contribute to the sustainability movement by staying in an officially eco-labelled hotel. Finding one is easy since 70% of the hotels are sustainably certified. During your trip, you have all the conditions for walking and biking instead of driving, eating organic food, and exploring the natural beauty of the region.

myclimate Audio Adventure

The non-profit foundation myclimate, with Swiss roots, offers three tours: one for adults, one for teens, and one for kids. The goal is to help you discover more about biodiversity, pedestrian-friendly areas and climate protection. All you need to do is download the free app and select one of the stories. The audio recording is about 60 minutes long. You can do the tour on foot, which would take about 2.5 hours, or rent a bike.

For adults: Heat from the river Limmat, biodiversity and new forms of housing.

For teens (over 11 years old): Mia wants to know!

For kids (over 5 years old): The lizard from Zurich Central Station.

University of Zürich Botanical Garden

The Botanical Garden of the University of Zürich shows off its broad collection of flora, both local and imported, on the 5.6 hectares that were laid out in the 1970s. Even when it's raining or when it's cold, you can visit the tropical greenhouses. Each glass bubble represents a distinct climate: the sweltering humidity of the tropics, the dry heat of the Mediterranean, and the flowering alpine meadows.

Outdoor Swimming

The best way to cool down is by plunging into the clear, refreshing water. All the better if you don't even need to leave the city centre to do it. Zürich offers sandy beaches and grassy areas to sunbathe, diving towers, and panoramic views of the Alps. Read a book in the shade of the trees, swim in the lake or the river, Zürich has a bathing spot for every taste.

The public bathing traditions in Zürich stem from the Romans. Today, you can find more than 15 open-air baths. Many locations are equipped with showers and changing rooms.

Enea Tree Museum

Designed by the famous landscape architect Enzo Enea, this 75,000 m<sup>2</sup> park near Lake Zurich in Rapperswil-Jona is a 'tree museum' showcasing trees from 25 species alongside sculptures by international artists. It's an amazing place for lovers of art, nature, and tranquility.

Uetliberg — Top of Zürich

Uetliberg is called Zurich's very own mountain. The 870 m (2,850 feet) summit gives you views of the city and lake, plus a glimpse of the Alps. You can quickly and easily get to the mountain with the S10 line. There is lots to discover: well-marked hiking and bike routes, the Planet Trail walk that takes you on a tour through a model of our solar system. In the winter, the hiking trail becomes a toboggan run.

Uetliberg is especially popular in November, when the Uto Kulm summit is often above the blanket of fog.

DO & SEE

RossHelen/Shutterstock

There is so much to see in Zürich. This charming city is largely an intact medieval town with a beautiful natural setting. Here you can find something amazing at every corner: architectural highlights, historic squares, streets and districts, churches, works of art, and much more.

Old Town

Zurich's Old Town stretches along both sides of the Limmat River, with narrow cobble streets and medieval buildings. Explore winding lanes, peek into small shops, and visit landmarks like Grossmünster and Fraumünster (two of Zurich's most famous churches). Famous former residents of the area include Einstein, James Joyce, and Richard Wagner.

Address: Altstadt, Zürich

Church of St Peter

St Peter's Church is one of four main churches in the Old Town, alongside Grossmünster, Fraumünster, and Predigerkirche. Inside, traces of earlier foundations can still be seen under the choir. The tower holds the largest clock face in Europe, measuring 8.7 metres across — it's hard to miss when walking through the Old Town.

Lindenhof

Lindenhof is a quiet hill and public square in the heart of Zurich's Old Town, offering views over Grossmünster, Rathaus, and the Limmat River.

Explore the square, play a game of giant chess, or just sit by the fountain and watch the city move below.

The site has a long history, once home to a Roman and later Carolingian fortress, around which Zurich grew. Today, it's a calm spot where locals and visitors alike stop for a break from the streets nearby.

Address: Lindenhof, Zürich

Grossmünster

Grossmünster is a Romanesque church with twin towers that stand out across Zurich's skyline. It's historically important as the place where Ulrich Zwingli started the Reformation. Visitors can climb one of the towers for a view over the Old Town and the Limmat River, and notice details, such as the modern stained-glass windows by Augusto Giacometti.

Bahnhofstrasse

A visit to Zurich is not complete without a walk along the Bahnhofstrasse. It's often listed among the priciest shopping streets in the world, something you'll realise as soon as you see the window displays.

Bahnhofstrasse runs from the main station down to the lake and is home to big international brands and Swiss department stores. Even though it is known for luxury labels, there are a few everyday shops mixed in as well. If you prefer smaller, independent places, the side streets and nearby Old Town have more variety.

Kunsthaus Zürich

Kunsthaus Zürich is the city's main art museum, home to one of Switzerland's most important collections. Inside, you'll find everything from medieval panels and Dutch masters to works by Van Gogh, Picasso, Chagall, and Monet.

Address: Heimplatz 1, Zürich

Chinese Garden

The Chinese Garden sits at Zürichhorn by the lake, a gift from Zurich's sister city, Kunming. Inside are pavilions, small bridges, and a pond with koi, all arranged in a traditional style. It's not big, so expect a short wander rather than a full outing, but it's a calm spot to step away from the lake path for a few minutes.

Address: Bellerivestrasse 138, Zürich

Opening hours: Daily 11am-7pm

Phone: +41 44 380 31 51

Lake Zurich

Lake Zurich runs 40 kilometres from the city to the Glarner Alps. Boats leave from Bürkliplatz to nearby towns, but it's just as nice to stick to the promenade, watch rowers glide past, and grab a coffee at a waterside café. In summer, locals swim or picnic along the banks, so it's easy to join in or just sit and watch the activity.

Rietberg Museum

The Rietberg Museum is set in a quiet park on a small hill, with a 19th-century villa connected to a modern green-glass pavilion.

Inside, you'll find art and historical objects from Africa, Asia, and the Americas, making it the main museum in Switzerland focused on non-European cultures. The park is a nice bonus — good for a short walk before or after your visit — and there's a café onsite if you want to take your time.

Swiss Chocolate

Swiss chocolate is beyond comparison. In Zürich, you can try offerings from all the top brands and small artisanal confectionery manufacturers. Take a chocolate walking tour of the city and taste your way through the signature pralines and cakes, as well as the hot chocolate fondue.

Real chocoholics attend workshops to learn about everything from cocoa cultivation to conching, tempering, and the artistry of the confectionery craft. You can learn to decorate your own pralines, too.

For a one-stop all-inclusive tour, head to Lindt Home of Chocolate with its towering chocolate fountain, museum exhibits on production, as well as hands-on workshops with chocolatiers.

Fraumünster Church

Fraumünster stands by the Limmat, marked by its tall green steeple that you can easily spot from across the river. The church has roots back to the 9th century, first built as part of a women's abbey founded by Louis the German for his daughter.

People mainly come to see the stained-glass windows by Marc Chagall and Augusto Giacometti, which bring colour and light into its fairly simple interior. It's an easy stop while wandering Zurich's Old Town, especially if you're crossing the bridges or exploring the nearby squares.

Zürich Zoo

Zurich Zoo is one of the city's most-visited family spots, with around 300 species, from elephants and penguins to smaller primates and reptiles.

The Masoala Rainforest hall is a highlight, with tropical plants, birds flying overhead, and warm humid air that feels like stepping into another climate.

Zürich Opera House

Zurich's Opera House has been home to opera and ballet in the city since the late 1800s, and there's usually something on, from big productions to smaller concerts. So, be sure to check the schedule if you're thinking of going, as shows often sell out. There are guided tours too if you're curious about what goes on behind the curtain, and the square outside is a good place to sit for a moment with an ice cream or coffee after a walk by the lake.

Zürichhorn

Zürichhorn is the green space at the mouth of the Limmat, right where the river meets Lake Zurich. The park has lakeside access, plenty of trees, a large playground, and a grill area, making it easy to spend a few hours relaxing outdoors.

Address: Zürichhorn, Zürich

Swiss National Museum

Right next to the station, there's a museum that looks like a fairytale castle, filled with objects and stories from Swiss history. Inside, you'll find everything from medieval armour and traditional costumes to everyday items and design pieces, plus temporary exhibitions that cover more recent themes.

Address: Museumstrasse 2, Zürich
Opening hours: Tue, Wed, Fri-Sun 10am-5pm, Thursday 10am-7pm, Mon closed

Freitag Tower

The Freitag Tower is a stack of shipping containers turned into a shop and lookout point in Zurich's former industrial quarter. Climb the narrow stairs through each level, check out the recycled-material bags along the way, and head up to the small platform at the top for a view over the area.

Address: Geroldstrasse 21, Zürich
Opening hours: Mon-Fri 11am-7pm, Sat 10am-6pm, Sun closed

Kaltbach Cheese Cave

About an hour's drive from Zurich, the Kaltbach Cave is a natural sandstone tunnel system formed millions of years ago. Here, cheese wheels mature in cool, humid air deep underground.

Rows of Gruyère, Emmentaler, and other wheels age slowly in the dark, picking up a strong flavour and that thick, dark rind the cave is known for. Guides explain the process, and there's usually a tasting at the end.

Tours need to be booked in advance and are mainly for groups, so planning ahead is essential.

FIFA Museum

Football fans will appreciate this modern museum dedicated to the history of the world's game. Spread across several floors, it features memorabilia from World Cups, interactive exhibits, and plenty of chances to test your skills in the 'Lab'. The museum shop is full of fun trinkets, and the Sportsbar 1904 has live games on big screens and refreshing drinks.

Zürich-West District

Once a district of factories and shipyards, Zürich-West has evolved into the city's creative playground. The old industrial bones are still here—big brick buildings, railway arches, steel beams—but they now house design studios, galleries, indie boutiques, start-ups, and some of the city's most interesting bars and restaurants. It has a raw, slightly gritty feel compared to the polished city centre, which is exactly why people love it.

Wander through Im Viadukt, where shops and market halls curve along the railway arches, or grab food and a drink in Frau Gerolds Garten, a colourful mix of urban garden, casual dining, and social hang-out. The Freitag tower, built from stacked shipping containers, sits in the heart of the neighbourhood. Climb up for views and browse their recycled-material bags on the way.

DINING

bonchan/Shutterstock

Zürich's traditional cuisine is hearty and often centred on meat. The city's signature dish is Züri Gschnetzlets — diced veal in a creamy mushroom sauce, usually served with rösti. Good-quality restaurants are scattered across the city, with Bahnhofstrasse lively in the afternoons and Niederdorf the go-to spot for dinner.

Dining in Zürich is expensive, no matter where you go, so expect prices to be high. And reservations are essential: the city's restaurants get busy, especially from Thursday to Saturday.

Kronenhalle

Kronenhalle has been a Zürich institution since 1924, known for classic Swiss and French dishes and a dining room adorned with original works by Chagall, Miró, Picasso and Klee. The restaurant has a sense of history and elegance, and it's easy to imagine artists and writers lingering over a meal here. Prices are on the higher side, but the combination of food, atmosphere and the chance to dine among iconic artworks makes it a memorable experience.

Swiss Chuchi Restaurant

Right in the heart of Zürich's Old Town inside Hotel Adler, Swiss Chuchi is a cosy spot dedicated to classic Swiss comfort food. It's best known for its rich cheese fondues as well as raclette and dishes like Zürcher Geschnetzeltes (Zürich-style sliced veal). Warm and rustic inside, it's a favourite for visitors looking to dive into traditional flavours, so booking ahead for dinner is wise, especially in winter.

Volkshaus

Volkshaus has been around since 1910 and still feels like stepping into another era. The dining room is spacious, with high-arched windows, dark wood, and soft jazz in the background. The menu focuses on Swiss classics with a modern twist, and the seasonal meat-carving cart is a highlight. It's a place that combines history and the city's contemporary energy, making it a comfortable spot for a proper Zürich dinner.

Zeughauskeller

This 15th-century former armoury is now a bustling beer hall on the Bahnhofstrasse. Sausages are the main draw here.

There are over a dozen types, including one that's a full metre long for the bold (or hungry) ones, and most recipes have been passed down and updated through generations. Alongside classic Swiss dishes like rösti and schnitzel, you'll find big portions and draft beer served in a lively, wood-beamed space scattered with historic artefacts.

Weisses Rössli

Just off the lakeside in the Enge district, Weisses Rössli is a quiet, elegant spot where French and Mediterranean influences meet seasonal Swiss ingredients. The kitchen is led by a chef recognised by Gault & Millau, and when the weather allows, the garden terrace makes for a pleasant meal outdoors. Dishes pair easily with wines from Switzerland, Italy and Spain, all carefully selected to complement the menu.

Didi's Frieden

Just off Bahnhofstrasse, Didi's Frieden delivers elegant dining with a distinctly Swiss flavour. The menu highlights include creative cordon bleu and veal dishes, crafted from high-quality local ingredients. The interior is stylish without being showy, and the wine list is carefully selected to match the cuisine.

Blinde Kuh

Blinde Kuh offers one of Zürich's most unforgettable dining experiences: a meal enjoyed in near-total darkness, served by blind and partially sighted staff. With sight taken out of the equation, every sound, scent, and flavour comes into sharp focus, turning even a simple dish into something surprising and immersive. The menu changes weekly and is kept largely a mystery. It's a popular spot and books up quickly, so plan ahead.

CAFÉS

SF11/Shutterstock

Zürich has plenty of stylish cafés where you can enjoy Swiss chocolate, house-made cakes, and pastries. Many cafés serve more than just coffee and sweets, so don't be surprised to find full meals, snacks, and even a selection of alcoholic drinks on the menu.

Confiserie Sprüngli

On Bahnhofstrasse, Confiserie Sprüngli is the flagship store of the famous Swiss chocolatier, founded in 1836. Inside, you'll find an extensive selection of mouth-watering chocolates, pralines, truffles, and cakes, including the signature Luxemburgerli macarons. There's a café on the first floor if you want to sit down and enjoy a coffee with a sweet treat.

Café & Conditorei 1842

Café & Conditorei 1842 is an old-school bakery in Zürich's Old Town, with high ceilings, Baroque décor, and a small terrace. The café is known for its house-made chocolates and pastries, but the hot chocolate with whipped cream is the star of the house — generous, well-balanced, and perfect on a chilly day. You can really feel the history here, from the décor to the timeless menu, making it a favourite for both locals and visitors alike.

H. Schwarzenbach

H. Schwarzenbach is a family-run café in the heart of Zürich's Old Town, now in its fifth generation. Hosued in a period building, it's a calm spot to enjoy high-quality coffee, tea, hot chocolate, and amaretti. The café's own bakery produces daily cakes and pastries, and the cheesecake is a must-try. Attached to the café is the famous Schwarzenbach delicatessen, where you can pick up chocolates and other treats to take home with you.

ViCAFE Bellevue

ViCAFE Bellevue is a tiny coffee spot that often has a queue, and for good reason. The coffee is the star here, made with care by friendly, knowledgeable baristas using beans from around the world. Don't miss the croi-muffin with sweet rosemary, a local favourite. With several locations around Zürich, it's an easy stop for a quality coffee while exploring the city.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

Kondor83/Shutterstock

Niederdorf is at the heart of Zürich's café, bar, and nightlife scene, particularly along the riverside Limmatquai, a pleasant spot to sit, people-watch, and enjoy a drink. The city offers plenty of live music, from jazz and rock to more experimental local acts.

Nightlife is diverse, with clubs catering to everything from techno and electronic beats to salsa and Latin rhythms, ensuring there's something for every taste.

Kaufleuten

Kaufleuten is one of Zürich's most iconic nightlife venues, combining a restaurant, bar, and club under one roof. By day, it serves seasonal, upscale dishes in a sleek dining room, while evenings see the space transform into a lively club hosting DJs, themed parties, and live music events. Here, you should definitely dress to impress.

Old Crow

Old Crow is a hidden gem for spirits enthusiasts in Zürich's Old Town. The bar's intimate, antiquated interior sets the stage for exploring a collection of over 1,600 bottles, with whiskies taking centre stage. Skilled bartenders craft both classic cocktails and rare, long-forgotten recipes, making it the perfect spot for a relaxed evening savouring top-notch drinks.

Oepfelhammer

Tucked into a centuries-old building in Zürich's Old Town, Oepfelhammer is a cosy tavern with plenty of character and deep roots in local tradition. Known locally as the 'Oeli', it serves regional Swiss cuisine paired with good wine in its dark-wood interior filled with names carved into benches and walls by past patrons.

Oeli also has a famously quirky tradition: the Balkenprobe, where brave guests attempt to drink a glass of wine while hanging upside-down from a ceiling beam. Whether you give it a go or simply watch others try, it's a memorable stop for a drink in a place where Zürich's past is very much still alive.

Rheinfelder Bierhalle

One of Zürich's oldest beer halls, Rheinfelder Bierhalle is as straightforward as they come: long wooden benches, bright lights, and no-nonsense charm. It draws a lively mix of locals, from office workers to students, all here for classic Swiss comfort dishes served in generous portions and cold beer that flows steadily from morning until late.

Nelson Pub

A favourite among Zürich's international crowd, Nelson Pub has a casual, British-style atmosphere with dark wood interiors, large screens, and a lively bar. It's a reliable spot to catch live football and other sports, especially on weekends when students and young expats gather. In the evenings, DJs spin tunes to keep the energy up. The menu offers classic pub grub as well as Swiss dishes, alongside a solid selection of beers, wine and spirits.

Moods

Moods is Zürich's premier jazz club, located on top of the Schiffbau building near Hardstrasse. The venue hosts live concerts almost every day from mid-September to mid-June, featuring a mix of jazz, funk, soul, and blues from both local and international artists. Be sure to check out their calendar when you're in town.

SHOPPING

Impact Photography/Shutterstock

Zürich's main shopping areas are concentrated in the city centre. Bahnhofstrasse is the most famous and one of the prettiest streets, lined with department stores, fashion boutiques, Swiss watch shops, and luxury brands. The street runs through the heart of the banking district, so expect a number of exclusive and upmarket stores.

head to Langstrasse, where independent shops, international labels, and a vibrant atmosphere create a unique urban mix. In the Old Town, the narrow alleys of Niederdorf offer hidden boutiques, antique stores, and untraditional shops, while the riverfront area of Schipfe showcases craftspeople selling handmade products along the Limmat. Each district has its own character, which makes shopping in Zürich as much about the experience as the purchases themselves.

Bahnhofstrasse

Zürich's most iconic shopping street, Bahnhofstrasse, stretches from the main train station down to Lake Zurich and is a true magnet for fashionistas and luxury lovers. The boulevard is lined with high-end boutiques, designer labels, Swiss watchmakers, and flagship stores of international brands. Side streets and arcades also hide smaller shops, jewelers, and specialty stores. Even if you're not planning on buying, strolling along the Bahnhofstrasse offers a quintessential Zürich experience.

TOURIST INFORMATION

Rudy Balasko/Shutterstock

Passport/Visa

Citizens of the European Union (EU) and European Economic Area (EEA) countries do not need a visa to enter Switzerland, only a valid ID. Many other countries, including the United Kingdom,

United States, Canada, United Arab Emirates, Australia, and New Zealand, benefit from visa-free entry for short stays of up to 90 days within a 180-day period.

Visitors from visa-exempt countries must hold a valid passport and, starting in late 2025, will need to apply for an ETIAS (European Travel Information and Authorisation System) authorisation online before travelling.

For those requiring a visa, such as travellers from some Middle-East, African, or Asian nations, a Schengen visa must be obtained prior to arrival. All travellers should ensure their passport is valid for at least three months beyond their intended stay.

Best Time to Visit

The best time to visit Zürich is from June to August, when long sunny days and warm temperatures make lake swimming, riverside cafés, and outdoor festivals a real pleasure. This is high season, with big events like Street Parade (a techno music festival) and the Züri Fäscht (a large, three-day festival, held every three years) drawing crowds.

Spring (March to May) is ideal if you like mild weather and fewer visitors; cherry blossoms along the lake and the Sechseläuten spring festival add plenty of local charm. Autumn (September and October) brings crisp days, vineyard harvests in the nearby wine regions, and a calmer atmosphere for sightseeing.

Winter in Zürich is quite cold, but magical. The Christmas markets, fondue pop-ups, and festive lights make December particularly charming, and the city becomes a cosy base for nearby Alpine ski trips.

Zürich Airport (ZRH)

Located roughly 11 km north of the city centre, Zurich Airport is well connected and takes about 10-15 minutes by train to reach Zürich

Hauptbahnhof (the main station). Trains run every 5-10 minutes throughout the day, making them the fastest and most convenient option for travellers. For a slightly slower but scenic route into town, take Tram Line 10 (about 30-35 minutes) from the airport. Taxis, ride-hailing services, and private transfers are available from outside the arrivals hall, and although they offer door-to-door convenience, expect higher fares and more time in traffic.

Public Transport

Zurich's public transport network is efficient, clean and very tourist-friendly, with trams, buses, regional S-Bahn trains, lake boats and even funiculars all integrated under the ZVV system.

While much of the compact city centre is a pleasure to explore on foot, public transport is excellent for reaching neighbourhoods, viewpoints and the lakefront.

Tickets are zone-based and valid across all modes, with options ranging from single 1-hour tickets to 24-hour passes. Travellers may also want to consider the Zürich Card, which provides unlimited second-class travel on all public transport (including the airport route) plus free or discounted entry to numerous museums, available for 24 or 72 hours.

Taxi

Taxis are easy to find in Zurich, with ranks at the main station, the airport, and major squares. You can usually hail one on the street or call a local company such as Taxi 444. Ride-hailing apps like Uber also operate in the city.

Postal Service

In Zurich, look for the yellow façades and the post-horn logo of Swiss Post when searching for a post office. The main branch convenient for travellers is located at Sihlpost, Kasernenstrasse 97, a short walk from the main station. Services include letter and parcel shipping, lockers for package collection, and foreign-currency exchange.

Pharmacy

In Zurich you'll spot pharmacies by the familiar green cross sign outside the shop-front. Many of the larger chains, for example the Amavita brand, have branches across the city and stock prescription meds, over-the-counter products, first-aid items and basic hygiene goods. Normal opening hours are roughly 8 am to 6:30 pm Monday to Friday, and around 8 am to 4 pm on Saturdays, though several pharmacies at train stations or major squares stay open late or even 24/7 for emergencies. One example is Bellevue Apotheke, which offers round-the-clock service.

Electricity

Switzerland operates on a 230V/50 Hz electrical system and uses both Type C (two-pin) and Type J (three-pin) plugs. Type C plugs are also compatible with Type J sockets.
