Bucharest

Aleksandar Todorovic / Shutterstock.com

Bucharest is Europe's best kept secret. While visually it can't quite compete with other grand Eastern European capitals, it leads the pack in dynamism, energy and forward momentum. The remnants of Communism are still palpable in the urban fabric, but the city has its sights set firmly on the future. Trendy outdoor cafes and high-street shops live side-by-side with gorgeous Orthodox churches and world-class art galleries in the old town, all overlooked by the imposing Palace of Parliament.

THE CITY

Iulian Dragomir / Shutterstock.com

Romanian legend tells that Bucharest was founded on the banks of the Dambovită River by a shepherd named Bucur, whose name means “joy”. By playing the flute, he amazed the people, and his wine from nearby vineyards was very popular among the local traders, who gave his name to the place.

As one of Europe’s most up-and-coming destinations, Bucharest has had to react quickly to its newfound status. As a result, there is a bevy of recently opened venues to eat, drink, shop, club and sleep. Standards are high and local residents have come to expect only the best.

From Piața Universității, most sights of interest are easily accessible. The nearby Calea Victoriei is a great starting point for shopping. These two landmarks constitute the central Bucharest area where many of the most well-known restaurants and bars are situated. Walking in this part of the city is the best way to see Bucharest quickly, but do not be afraid to venture further north, east and west to discover many more treasures.

Wander the tree-lined streets, take in the authentic folk art and sample a range of international cuisines. Whether you want traditional Romania or contemporary city life — come and find it all before the rest of the world does.

DO & SEE

Augustin Lazaroiu/Shutterstock.com

Bucharest boasts many beautiful monuments and landmarks, the most prominent being the Palace of Parliament — an imposing structure that now houses, among other things, one of the city’s best museums: The National Museum of Contemporary Art. Other museums worth visiting are the Museum of the Romanian Peasant and the National Art Museum, housed in the old royal palace. Alternatively, enjoy the vast green spaces the city has to offer, like the gorgeous Parcul Carol, or wander around the charming old town.

Palace of Parliament

Originally built to house all offices of the Communist ruling officers during Ceausescu’s regime, the imposing Palace of Parliament is Romania’s most famous building. Tours are open to the public, showing off the opulent staircases and chandelier-filled rooms and offering great insight into the building’s history. The palace also houses Romania’s National Museum of Contemporary Art.

Address: Palatul Parlamentului, Strada Izvor 2-4, București

Opening hours: You can book a tour with a tourist agency or call to book directly between 9am and 4pm a day before

Phone: +40 21 316 0300

Email: cic.vizite@cdep.ro

More Info: You need to book a tour in advance. The tour takes about 1-1.5 hours

Triumphal Arch

Similar to its Paris namesake, Bucharest's Triumphal Arch, standing tall at 26 metres, remembers Romania's Great War soldiers and its reunification in 1918. Initially, the arch was built out of wood in 1922, and was then finished in Deva granite in 1936.

The Triumphal Arch becomes the main stage for the military parade every December 1st, when Romanians celebrate their National Day.

Lipscani District

Lipscani, Bucharest's historical centre, retains an irresistible old town charm. It is located between Calea Victoriei, Boulevard Bratianu, Boulevard Regina Elisabeta and the Dambovită River. Its collection of winding streets boasts antique markets, bric-a-brac spilling out from tiny boutiques and some of the city's most appealing restaurants and bars.

University of Bucharest

In addition to being the centre for Bucharest's intellectual and political events and the most popular meeting place in the city, the University of Bucharest has a dramatic history. During the 1989 Revolution, some of Romania's fiercest fighting took place here. Close by you can find the University of Bucharest's School of Architecture, the National Theatre, the Coltea Hospital and the Sutu Palace (History Museum).

A Christmas market is held at the University Square every year, but you can find excellent restaurants and cafes in the area all year round.

Henri Coandă International Airport (OTP)

Bucharest is served by two airports: Henri Coandă International Airport (OTP) and Aurel Vlaicu International Airport (BBU). The Henri Coandă International Airport is located approximately 17 kilometres from the city centre of Bucharest and the journey takes about 40 minutes. Most international and domestic flights leave regularly from here.

Trains connect the airport and the Bucharest North Railway Station. The trains depart every 40 minutes and the trip takes 20 minutes. You can also catch the 100 Express line. Bus 100 connects the airport and the city centre. By day, the bus leaves every 15 minutes and every 30 minutes at night. You can find the buses in front of the Arrivals Terminal and the Departures Terminal.

Taxis can be ordered on the touch screen in the Arrivals Terminal.

Bucharest Băneasa — Aurel Vlaicu International Airport (BBU)

Bucharest Băneasa Airport (BBU) is located 8 kilometres north of the city centre, and the journey takes approximately 20 minutes. It mainly serves charter flights for package holidays and domestic flights.

To get to and from the airport you can catch buses 131, 335, 148, 112 and 301. You can also catch tram number 5 and the 100 Express line.

Public Transport

You can easily walk or bike around the city, but you can also take the bus, tram, trolleybus or metro around Bucharest. With these forms of public transport you can get around the city safely and efficiently.

Bus, tram and trolleybus tickets can be purchased at any RATB kiosk. Punch your ticket in the machine board to avoid a fine. Transport runs from 4:30 am to 11 pm. Night busses are available after that.

Bucharest's metro has five lines. Trains run every 5-15 minutes, every 15-20 off-peak, from 5:30 am to 11 pm. Sit at the front of trains to avoid missing station signs which are not clearly signposted. The metro is good for travelling longer distances.

Tickets can be used on all means of transportation except the express buses.

Taxi

Always make sure your taxi has a meter to avoid unnecessarily high fares. Once this has been established, you are in for a comfortable and inexpensive ride. Just hail a taxi down from the side of the street.

Uber, Bolt and Yango ridesharing apps work in Bucharest, too.

Opening hours

Most shops in Bucharest tend to open on weekdays from 10 am till 6 pm and on Saturday from 10 am till 5 pm.

Restaurants usually stay open until about 11 pm. Cafes start operating earlier, at about 8 am, and many bars close at about 2 am. Banks are open from 9 am till 3 pm with a lunch break between noon and 1 pm.

In summer, some businesses will reduce staff, opening hours or even close for the entire month of August.
