THE ANCIENT CITY

www.visitplovdiv.com

Life in Plovdiv has never ceased since its first inhabitants - Thracian tribes, settled down about 8, 000 years ago. Due to this fact it has been proclaimed by Daily Telegraph 'The Oldest Continuously - Inhabited City in Europe'. In IV century BC Philip II of Macedon conquered the city and gave it one of its most popular names - Philippopol. Philippopol played an important role in formation of Hellenistic culture.

In 46 AD Thrace became a Roman province and Plovdiv was given the name Trimontium (City on Three Hills), but citizens often referred to it with its previous name - Philippopol. Later it was proclaimed a metropolitan city of the Thracian province. After the separation of the Roman Empire, it became part of the Byzantine Empire, until it was first conquered by Bulgarians under Khan Krum in 812.

During the Ancient period, Philippopol became a city as significant as it is nowadays. In the ast 8 millenia, representatives of various civilizations left their imprint and created unique of its kind cultural heritage. Doublessly, the cultural sites from the Roman period are among the most well-preserved in the modern city.

As a metropolitan city of the Roman province of Thrace, Phlippopol was gradually equipped with all the commodities, typical for a leading administrative center: a Forum and Odeon, magnificent theatre - venue of cultural life not only in Antiquity, but also in the modern city, a huge stadium, which hosted games, resembling the Olympic games, as well as Aquaducts. Soon after Christianity was legalized in the beginning of VI century, the city became an important religious center.

Archaeological Complex Nebet Hill

The earliest settlements on the territory of Plovdiv are dated back to the VI millennium BC. There were several Prehistoric settlements on the territory of the modern city, but the oldest and most important one was located on a hill known as Nebet tepe.

During the Hellenistic period the town began to spread towards the foot of the hills. At Nebet Hill there are found ruins of dwellings and fortifications dating from this period.

The complex of Nebet tepe continued to play an important role as a part of the fortification system of the city until the XIV century. A notable finding of that later period is a water reservoir of 350 cubic meters.

Roman Mosaics of Ancient Philippopol -Candidate for the UNESCO World Herritage List

Plovdiv is currently a candidate for the UNESCO World Herritage List with its perfectly-preserved Roman mosaics in 3 different locations - the Bishop's basilica, the Early-Christian Small Basilica and Ancient Residential Building 'Eyrene'.

The Bishop's basilica is the biggest early-Christian temple found on the territory of Bulgaria. It impresses not only with its dimensions - 36 m of width and 90 m of lenght, but also with its unique architecture, including nearly 2000 sq. m. of mosaics in two layers. The earliest data for the temple are from IV-VI century. The temple was presumably amont the first early-Christian temples built after the Roman empire adopted Christianity as an official religion.

The temple will be open for visitors in 2019. Diversity of beautiful Roman mosaics can also be explored in the Small Basilica and Ancient Residential Building 'Eyrene'.

Ancient Theatre

Plovdiv is proud of having one of the most well-preserved ancient theatres in the World, which is also one of the biggest open-air stages on the Balkans.

The Ancient theatre of Philippopol, which has been built in the 90s of I century, is one of the best-preserved ancient theatres in the World. Located in the saddle between Taksim and Dzhambaz Hills in the Old Town, it was one of the main public buildings in the ancient city. Apart from theatre performances, the theatre was a venue of gladiator and hunting games, with capacity of 6 000 spectators.

Top events take place here during the summer season, such as the Opera Festival "Opera Open", the International Folklore Festival and the Rock Festival "Sounds of Ages".

Roman Stadium

The Roman Stadium was constructed in II century during the reign Emperor Hadrian, following the model of the Delphic Stadium. Its Southern part can be seen nowadays, located between Taksim Hill and Sahat Hill.

The facility was approximately 240 meters long and 50 meters wide and could accommodate up to 30 000 spectators.

The epigraphic and numismatic research of the artefacts discoverd there prove that games similar to the Pythian Games in Greece were held in the city. Alexandrian games were held here in 214 to honour the visit of the Roman emperor Caracalla and Kedrisian Games were carried out in 218 for the visit of emperor Elagabalus.

The Roman Stadium was proclaimed a Culutral Site of National Value in 1995.

Forum of Philippopol

The Forum (Agora) of Philippopol was an administrative, commersial and religious center of the ancient city, a square where debates and various public meetings were taking place. It was situated on the foots of the three hills, in the central part of Philippopolis. With its area of 20 acres, it is the biggest forum complex in Bulgaria, which corresponds to the paramount importance of Philippopolis as a Metropolis of the Thracian province.

Its ruins can be seen at the Central square on the Main Shopping Str., along with those of the Odeon of Philipoppol.

Odeon of Philippopol

The Odeon of Philippopolis is situated at the North-East end of the Ancient Forum (Agora). The presence of a such a building in the central part of the Ancient city gives grounds to assuming the great importance of Philippopolis as a cultural and political centre.

The building is supposed to have originally served as bouleuterion (town hall), but research on later periods of construction indicate it was also used as a theatre. According to the archaeological findings, the building has had four periods of construction between I and IV century AD.

The researches and analyses show that the Odeon has all the elements typical for theatres: a skene, orchestra and cavea.

Early Christian Basilica

The basilica was built in the second half of V century AD and has diverse architectural decorations - marble colonnades separating the aisles, marble altar wall, pulpit and synthronos. There is variety of colorful mosaics with geometrical motives covering the whole floor .

Two donor inscriptions were found during excavation works. One of them was carved on the lining marble slab from the altar of the basilica. The other was shaped in the mosaic of red tesserae on white background, just opposite to the altar apse. The name on it has been erased, but it probably refers to Basilisk, a Byzantine Emperor in 475-476 AD.

Ancient Residential Building Eyrene

The peristyle building from the end of the III century is located in the heart of the Ancient Philippopol and used to cover an are of nearly 1 600 sq.m.

The incredible floor mosaics in this residential building combine pictorial elements from both the Eastern and Western Roman provinces. It is popular as Eyrene because of the excavated mosaics, depicting an image of a woman with the same name.

The renovated Southern part of the building is also a cultural center, a venue of concerts, book presentations and public discussions.

Aqueduct of Philippopol

Romans have come to one of the most spectacular inventions in terms of water supply during the Antiquiy - the aqueducts. These were the most expensive public facilities built during the Roman period and such an investment was made in very few cities, including Philippopol.

The Ancient Philippopol was supplied with fresh water from the Rhodopes. Two main water captations were found near the present-day villages of Kuklen and Markovo.

The aqueduct of Philippopol was built in II – III century. It consists of the two major pipelines beating off the mountain springs at the foot of Rhodopes and joining near the Komatevo neighborhood. In II century Philippopol was already being supplied with 43 000 tons of water annually, which was being gathered on the foot of Taxim Hill.

The Western Aqueduct was the most impressive and nowadays it is restored and presented to the public.

Bishop's Basilica

The Bishop's Basilica is and one of the biggest and most significant Early-Christian temples in the Balkans. It was constructed at the end of V – beginning of VI century on an area of 700 sq. m. and its ruins can be found nowadays in front of St. Louis Cathedral. The basilica fascinates with its mosaics covering the floor and walls, including original images of 'Heracles Knot', 'Spring of Life', as well as various geometrical patterns and bird images, which never resemble one another neither by species, nor by position. A project for its restoration and full exposure is running at the moment and aims to transform the site and the surrounding area into a cultural complex. The Bishop's Basilica will be a candidate for UNESCO World Heritage List after its complete restoration.

East Gate of Philippopol

The ruins of the East Gate can be seen nowadays at the Northeast end of the Old Town. It was of great significance to the Ancient city, as two impotant roads were crossing it – the road to Byzantium, as well as the one to Danube. At that particular place, a gate already existed in the 2nd century AD. Nearby, there was an arch, at about 18 meters northeast of the gate. It is presumed that on both sides of the street there were military barracks, which formed an entire complex with the East Gate. They were built in the 4th century directly on the ruins of the fortifications.

PLOVDIV - EUROPEAN CAPITAL OF CULTURE 2019

www.plovdiv2019.eu

Plovdiv is the first Bulgarian city chosen to be European Capital of Culture. In 2019, twenty years after the city was a host of the Month of Culture in 1999, it will celebrate the most prestigious cultural initiative of the European Union.

European Capital of Culture is a unique project for Bulgaria which provides new opportunities for the development of the potential of the city and new international visibility and a perspective on Bulgarian culture as a whole. The programme of Plovdiv European Capital of Culture 2019 also includes activities and events in the South Central Region of Bulgaria. After four years of preparation, the programme is already a fact, with more than 300 projects and nearly 500 events covering not only the city but also the whole South Central Region as well as the cities finalists from the second round of the competition - Varna, Sofia and Veliko Tarnovo. Within the framework of the initiative, many traditional city events have gained new strength and have expanded, new festivals have emerged, and an extraordinary amount of new experience with cultural content and its management, will surely remain as a legacy of the initiative.

The beautiful Italian city of Matera, together with Plovdiv, has been chosen as the twin European Capital of Culture for 2019.

The two cities are collaborating actively and have common projects and initiatives. For 2019 Matera also represents the region of Basilicata.

THE OLD TOWN

Ancient Plovdiv Architectural and Historical Reserve (The Old Town) has preserved enormous cultural heritage formed during 8 archaeologic periods – Prehistoric, Thracian, Hellenic, Roman, Late-ancient, Medieval, National Revival, and Post-Liberation periods as well as modern culture.

Apart from the Roman sites, The Old Town fascinates with beautifully-ornamented Revival houses, most of which have been turned into museums and galleries. These buildings are characterized by unique national interpretation of the European baroque.

Hisar Gate

The gate exists in its pesent-day appearance since XI century.

However, below the level of the street pavement there have been found foundations from the Roman period (probably from the 2nd century AD).

It served as a crypt for many years. The gate is part of the ensemble, which includes the outdoor quadrangular tower under the altar of St. Konstantin and Elena Church.

Stepan Hindliyan's house is one of the few houses in Plovdiv representing the the symmetric design of a typical Revival house. The owner of the house was a merchant and representative of one of the four wealthiest families of Armenian origin in Plovdiv.

The walls on the second floor of the house impress with paintings of landscapes from Constantinople, Venice, Alexandria, Stokholm and other cities, all painted by memory. A mirror image of the house can be seen above the door of the storage room in the yard, which serves both as decoration and a blueprint of the house. Many of the cultural events take place in the house every year.

St. St. Konstantin and Elena Church

The church St. St.

Konstantin and Elena is one of the oldest

Christian temples Plovdiv, located right on the wall of the Acropolis in the Old Town.

In 304, at the place where the church is located today, 38 martyrs of Plovdiv became victims of persecutions against Christians. According to archaeological researches, the very first Christian temple in the city was built in honor of two the beheaded holy martyrs - the Thracians Severin and Memnos.

In the '60s of XIX century, a beautiful 13-meter-high bell tower was built, with five floors and two bells. Next to the church, there used to be a parish school, which nowadays operates as an Icon gallery.

Dr. Stoyan Chomakov's House - Exposition of Zlatyu Boyadzhiev

The doctor and public official from the National Revival period Dr. Stoyan Chomakov was one of the most active fighters for autonomous Bulgarian Church before the Liberation from Ottoman domination in 1878.

The Chomakov's House, built in 1862-1865, is his 'testament' to the future generations of Plovdiv. In terms of its architecture, the Neocalssical style popular at that time, was abandoned. Since 1984 this house has hosted the biggest collection of 72 paintings by the famous Bulgarian artist Zlatyu Boyadzhiev (1903-1976), representing the two periods of his professional life.

Museum of Pharmacy

The house was built in 1872 by Dr. Sotir Antoniadi, one of the first people with medical degree in Plovdiv. Nowadays, it features the Old pharmacy shop Hippocrates and the Museum of Pharmacy, which are unique for Bulgaria. Here you can have insight of the way medicine and pharmacy were practised during the Bulgarian Revival period, up to the beginning of the 20th century – a period when all the medications and pills used to be made of natural ingredients.

A lot of tools and medical equipment, manufactured mainly in Vienna and Berlin, are displayed inside.

The original book with recipes by the healer St. John of Rila still keeps the memory of the century-old art of making remedies.

St. Nedelya Church

The first temple to Saint Nedelya at that venue was built in the early XVII century and is one of the few churches built on this area. The majority of the icons were painted by Dimitar Hristov Zograph and his son Zafir, later known by the pseudonym Stanislav Dospevski.

Frescoes from 1871 are preserved in the temple. They can be seen on the eastern wall of the altar and in medallions, located high between the arches of the columns. On the west wall under the balcony, on both sides of the entrance, there were found two mural panels depicting St. George and St. Dimitar /Demetrius/ in the typical iconography of horsemen warriors.

Klianti's House

The construction of this residential building started in the middle of the 18th c. It is an asymmetrical two-storey house, which has undergone several refurbishments in the 19th c., the most significant being that from 1817. Up to the present time 2/3 of its original substance have been preserved, for over time it had changed several owners.

Of all the Revival period houses in Plovdiv, Klianti House is the oldest and features enthralling interior decoration and unique architecture. The covered yard on the ground level is impressive. The first floor today consists of three rooms and of a spacious hayet with many windows. At the level of the hayet, next to it, a median storage room is built with a height of 1.60 m. It is named himala (meaning "low" in Greek). The ornamentation and decoration on the walls in these two rooms is extremely rich and is matched with preserved wooden elements. The mural paintings are polychrome and include plant ornamentation, bouquets and vases with flowers. The wooden ceilings are adorned with different decorative ornaments, the enclosed wooden recesses (musandras) are painted with bouquets of roses and the doors are richly decorated. On both sides of the alafranga in one of the rooms, unique landscapes from Vienna and Constantinople and the year 1817 were treated and restored.

Chalakov's House

This is one of the many houses in the Old Town that used to belong to the famous house of Chalakovtsi during the Revival period. Valko and Stoyan Chalakovi were born in Koprivshtitsa, but their left their mark here, in Plovdiv. The churches St. Bogoroditsa and St, Nikolay, which are just next to the house, were built mostly on their donations, as well as the school 'St. St. Kiril and Metodiy'.

The bigger brother - Valko, is donator of the Rila Monastery, and was responsible for the schools, churches and hospitals in Plovdiv.

The house of Chalakovtsi was restored in 2012 by Assosiation 'Trakia' with the help of volunteers and artists from National School 'Tsanko Lavrenov'. The furniture which can be seen in the house is entirely from the Revival period.

St. Virgin Mary Church

The first records of a church, which was originally buit in honour of Virgin Mary, date back to IX - X century. In 1844 - 45, craftsmen from Bratzigovo constructed an entirely church - a three-nave pseudo-basilica with impressive dimensions. After Stoyan Chalakov took the position of churchwarde, the church was entirely reconstructed.

The iconostasis was made by the Debar woodcarvers Andon Stanishev and Dimitar Stanishev in the Empire style and Nikola Odrinchanin created the icons. In 1875 Stanislav Dospevski painted the royal icon of Saint Mary with the Divine Infant by the iconostasis. The hurch was fully restored in 2000.

St. Dimitar Church

At this place in the beginning of XIX century there was a dilapidated late medieval church, dedicated to St. Dimitar of Solun the Thaumaturgus. Funds for the continuation of the construction were donated by wealthy Plovdiv citizens Ivan Politoglu, Valko and Stoyan Teodorovich Chalakovi, Stoyan Kurtovic Chalakov, Iskro Kesyakov, Todor Valkovich, and others. Anton Kamizopulos, merchant of Greek origin in Moscow, born in Plovdiv, donated valuable church-plates for the ordinance of the altar: Four Gospel, decorated with fittings, censers and vestments for the priests. Probably the temple was built by the famous master from Bratsigovo Stoyu Ivanov.

Most impressive is the marble iconostasis, the only monument of its kind in our Revival art. It was created in 1860-1869, by Adrianople and local masons, led by Greek artist A. Calumen. The funds for the expensive and impressive iconostasis were donated by the prominent resident of the parish, Ivan G. Politoglu.

The yard of the St. Dimitar temple is surrounded by high stone walls. In the western part there is the small chapel-holy spring, dedicated to the martyrs St. Kirik and Julita. In the north side of the narthex is the belfry, built in the '80s of XIX century by architect Joseph Shniter's design. The single storey building of the sexton's house fits snugly to the southern fence wall. Next to the chapel, built on the high retaining wall, is the old priest's home.

St. Nikolay Church

Sveti Nikolay (St. Nicholas) Chapel is located on top of Taksim Tepe in Plovdiv, about 70-80 meters west of The Assumption church. It is assumed that it was built during the reign of Bulgarian ruler Ivan Alexander around 1355 and was Saint Nikolay even then.

The current building of the chapel dates back to 1835, when it was built with funds donated by Valko Todorov Chalakov from Plovdiv, who lived very near the temple. St. Nicholas Chapel is a small, single nave basilica, with one apse and a size of 17.5m /9.80m/6m. It is built of unshaped stone. Only the east altar wall and the apse are from carved stone blocks.

The iconostasis of the chapel is from the old demolished church and that is why it is the oldest iconostasis in Plovdiv. It dates back to 1733 and has an interesting and original old carving. Presumably, it was made by local craftsmen, who were influenced by the carving in the great church of Bachkovo Monastery. The church icons were painted by Renaissance painters Zahari Zograf and Dimitar Zograf. The royal icons of Jesus Christ, Virgin Mary, St. John the Baptist and St. Nicholas are the work of Zahari Zograf. There is a relatively small icon of St. Nicholas on the iconostasis, whose author was Hristo Dimitrov, Zahari Zograf's father.

Armenian Apostolitic Church

Armenian Apostolic Church Surp Kevork Surp Kevork Church was originally an Eastern Orthodox Church, dedicated to St. George the Victorious. This is the only church with side compartments besides the central nave: one for women and another for men. Next to the church there was built a chapel. After several reconstructions the church got its present outlook.

In front of the church and around it there is a large yard that surrounds the church complex in a rectangular shape. Part of it serves as a school yard from the time it was built in the first three decades of XIX century. The yard on the west side rests on a massive, high stone wall. In the past, the yard was intended for graveyard of prominent and wealthy Armenians from the community, as well as priests and prelates, who had died here. In the churchyard, on the empty spot between the church and the erstwhile Surp Hach church, there is a preserved marble sarcophagus with a rectangular shape. The church tower, probably constructed in the second half of XIX century, was semi-destroyed during the earthquake in 1928. The new tower was built on the same spot in the corner. In the courtyard, in front of Tadey and Parteniy chapel to the west side, near the west staircase, still stands a well, made to the order of a noble Armenian, in memory of his deceased son. The well was built on May 5, 1877. In the northern part of the churchyard is the former building of St. Vartanants - Varavaryan School, with an inscription in Armenian on elliptical marble plaque and the year of its construction in 1894.

Metropolitan Church of St. Martyr Marina

After the Edict of Milan in 313 AD in the ancient city of Plovdiv were built an episcopal basilica and residence of the spiritual head of the diocese. The temple, existing in the time after this period, was built probably in V century and existed until the end of VI century when it was destroyed by Slavic invasions. According to studies of these researchers the temple was dedicated to St. Paul.

In the middle of XVIII century the church was burned down again. Among the first donors in its recovery were Hadji Andon, Konstantin Mavrudioglu, Costa Atanasov and priest Yani. It was finally completed in 1783 during the time of the Plovdiv Metropolitan Kiril. In 1828 the construction of a new iconostasis for the temple, a pulpit and a canopy for the Holy See started. The woodcarvers who made this were representatives of the Debar carving school. The dome is with polyhedral shape. In the western part of the temple there is an open colonnade - narthex which was inscribed with biblical scenes by painter Nikita Odrinchanin in 1858. The total number of scenes are 29, 24 of which are from the Old Testament. When the construction of the new, bigger temple started, the earlier carved iconostasis was preserved. On the left of the royal doors of the iconostasis was an icon of Virgin Mary with the started, the earlier carved iconostasis was preserved. On the left of the royal doors of the iconostasis was an icon of Virgin Mary with the Divine Infant, and on the right – an icon of Christ the Savior, both painted by Stanislav Dospevski in 1868. Two old places for church singers have octagonal shape and are decorated with encrusted bones and wooden plates.

Nowadays, St. Marina is the temple with the biggest number of bells. The church also stores a fraction of the holy relics of Saint Martyr Marina as a sanctuary.

City Art Gallery: Exposition of Georgi Bozhilov - Slona

The Skobeleva house is a Revival house in Plovdiv, built in 1860 by Kostadin Kaftandzhiyata, a prominent Bulgarian from Stara Zagora. After the liberation the mother of gen. Mihail Skobelev, Olga Skobeleva (1823-1880), lived here until her death. She is known for her charity for helping the bulgarian victims of the Turkish rout in southern Bulgaria during the April Uprising and the Liberation War. At her place of death near Tsarigradsko shose Blvd. stands a memorial park. In 2003 in the Skobeleva house is arranged a constant exposition, devoted to the work of the famous Plovdiv artist Georgi Bozhilov - The Elephant (1935-2001). On the northern side there could be seen a picturesque panel and a mosaic of another famous painter - Dimitar Kirov, which he dedicates to his friend. The turbot of the house from the side of Saborna Str. is decorated with memorial mural, a painting and a mosaic, designed by Dimitar Kirov, engraved in Georgi Bozhilov's memory.

City Art Gallery - Exposition of Tsanko Lavrenov

In his works Tsanko Lavrenov demonstrates a deep sincere devotion to the monuments of the Bulgarian Renaissance.
His compositions with themes from Plovdiv and Veliko Tarnovo, with themes from old monasteries of the Holy Mountain of Athos, Rila and Rhodopes, indicate his desire to connect with the natural architectural forms in the name of their respectable historicity.

Although almost all the characteristics of his art are typical for modernism and are not unknown to European art of that time, put together in his decorative graphic illustrations, they present a different approach to creativity.

City Art Gallery - Exposition of Encho Pironkov

Encho Pironkov's style is typified by strong expressive gesture with a sense of spontaneity and naturalness. It fragments pictorial space and fits in it figures holding ceremonial position. Dealing with these compositions is dramatically enhanced by the peculiar mystique of the message and the typical strong opposition to the cut-off in them.

This art has evolved and been enriched contemporary plastic ideas and opinions, thus forming part of a new mythology in Bulgarian painting.

The gallery displays 45 works donated by the artist, covering various periods of his creative development.

CITYSCAPE

www.visitplovdiv.com

Plovdiv is a compact city which can be best negotiated on foot. The Main Shopping Street, which is not only a shopping paradise, but also unique in architecture, loosely bounds the Old Town, where the cultural sites from all the millennia of the city's history can be discovered, along with modern museum expositions. The city located on six hills, which are natural areas with unique animal and plant species, and perfect for leisure activities.

The romantic atmosphere of the city can be felt whether watching the sunset from the top of a hill, or enjoying a cozy restaurant or taking a night walk downtown.

Main Shopping Street

Plovdiv boasts with having one of the longest pedestrian streets in Europe. With its 1750 m. of length, the Main Street is not only a shopping paradise, but also an architectural phenomenon. Most of the houses here have been built in the early 20th century, their architecture representing the Classicism, Secession and Postmodernism.

The Main Street loosely bounds the historical center of the city - the Old Town, and is tightly connected with Kapana District and the Tsar Simeon's Garden.

Its location makes it perfect for romantic nightwalks or exploring the nightlife of the city. A number of events take place there, such as the Fair of Crafts, as well as a number of concerts and fairs.

Kapana District

The district emerged as a center for craftsmen 5 centuries ago. Nowadays, one will not find craftsmen here, but contemporary creative entrepreneurs. This project is also part of the artistic program of "Together" – the concept and motto Plovdiv won the European Capital of Culture 2019 with. You will find galleries, workshops, ateliers, studios, cozy restaurants and shops, as well as other art spaces, and there is even a vinyl shop! All these places fill Kapana with modern cultural content not only with their daily activities but also organizing events with social, economic and cultural effect for the city, such as concerts, exhibitions, festivals, forums, art installations, screenings, workshops and many more.

Danov Hill

Danov Hill (Sahat Tepe) is located in the center of Plovdiv, west of the Main Street. In the first modern city plan, drawn by Joseph Schnitter, the hill was named the Hour Hill. Over time, there were numerous changes, the most serious of which was in 1812 (according to the Arabic inscription above the entrance). It is believed that in Roman times on the top of the hill there was a temple of Venus. Near the tower there is also a radio relay television station, built on January 18, 1956 (on July 1, 1960 it started airing radio broadcasts). Its altitude is 210 m.

Liberators Hill

The hill is located western from the city center and is the second highest in the city with its altitude of 234 m. Its old name – Bunardzhik, which is still in use, originates from the Ottoman word Bunar (a well), and refers to the small spring that flows down the hill. The hill bears its modern name -Liberators hill, from the two monuments on the top - the Monument of Russian Liberators, who set the city at liberty from Ottoman occupation on January 16, 1878, and the one of the Unknown Russian Soldier, popular as Alyosha. The Alley of Astronauts loosely bounds both monuments, the first pine-tree here having been planted by Yuri Gagarin himself back in 1961. On the foot of the hill, there are a number of sport facilities, as well as the Summer theatre, which is a popular venue of concerts.

Youth Hill and Children's Railway

The top of Dzhendem Tepe is the highest altitude of the city's seven hills. The hill, which is located in the southwest part of the city, has the status of a national landmark with the aim of preservation the natural habitat of rare plant species, such as Bulgarian and Balkan relict endemic tutsan, Astragalus physocalux, Genista rumelica.

The hill has been inhabited since 3 000 B.C., and some archaeological sites from the periods have been found, such as statue of Apollo from Late Antiquity and a three-nave basilica from early-Christian times.

The children Railway is located on the foot of the Youth Hill. It was founded in 1979 and since then it has been a real attraction for the children and their parents, both citizens and visitors of Plovdiv. Thousands of kids from the region keep the memory of their very first travelling by train on the Youth Hill. The train, which consists of an engine and three carriages, starts its journey from the Peoneer Station, which has a platform, two lines, as well as traffic lights. The duration of the trip is about 25 minutes per direction.

A number of cultural activities regularly take

Tsar Simeon's Garden and the Lake with the Singing Fountains

Tsar Simeon's Garden in Plovdiv is created in 1892 by the Swiss landscape architect Lucien Chevalas (1840-1921). Since the summer of 2015 the restored fountain of Goddess Demeter is brought for a new life, and a Viennese pavilion is built in the center of the park. In addition, new benches and modern children's playgrounds are installed. The trees and the flowers turn the park in a paradise garden.

The pearl on the crown of the park is the renovated Lake with the Singing Fountains. You can enjoy the light show of the lake intertwined with water effects.

The Fountain's special dance – a spectacular show with music and light can be observed every Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 21:00 during the summer season.

Leisure and Culture Park

Leisure and Culture Park is Plovdiv's greenest area, located near the bank of Maritsa river and within a reach from the city center. Within its borders, there are a number of natural and cultural sites included, such as the Rosarium park, the biggest Rowing Canal on the Balkans, the Common Knoll, and Plovdiv Zoo, which is soon going to open its doors to visitors. The venue is also part of the city's retail area, located within a reach to big shopping centers, residence complexes, restaurants and hotels. The cycling trail network covering almost the whole city, starts from the site.

Sport facilities are abundant in the area, including the biggest stadium in Bulgaria - Plovdiv stadium. A newly-constructed Youth Center opened doors last year and offers variety of youth activities.

Rowing Canal

The Rowing Canal (Regatta Venue) in the city of Plovdiv is a sports facility for rowing. This is the largest facility of this kind in the Balkans where rowing competitions can be held. The channel is 2 200 meters long, 120 meters wide and three meters deep. It is located adjacent to the Recreation and Culture Park. The spectators can enjoy the sports events from the renovated 800 seats grandstand.

Other sports facilities are also located at the territory of the sports complex - tennis courts, a swimming pool, a Rope Garden Attraction.

Recently, the place has become extremely attractive to both the citizens and the visitors of the city. Here you can enjoy a pleasant walk or rest. Restaurants located around the Rowing facilities appear to be tempting for those willing to taste traditional dishes while enjoying calm and peaceful atmosphere.

Monument of Bulgarian Unification - 1885

The Monument of Unification in Plovdiv was erected in 1985 on occasion the 100th anniversary of the Unification of Eastern

Rumelia and the Principality of Bulgaria in 1885. Its sculptor is Velichko Minekov. This event is one of the most important in the historical development of Bulgaria. After the Russo-Turkish war for liberation of Bulgaria from Ottoman rule, the Berlin Peace Treaty of 1878 divided Bulgaria into two independent parts (states). The northern half of the present-day territory was called Principality of Bulgaria (under the rule of a Prince) with capital Sofia, and the southern -Eastern Rumelia (under the control of a Governor, the first of whom was the prominent Bulgarian Aleko Bogoridi) with its capital Plovdiv. The Monument of Unification depicts the Mother Motherland with the laurel wreath of victory in her hands. The wings in flight symbolize the two united parts of Bulgaria. Every year on September 6th the historical event of the Unification is noted as an official holiday in Bulgaria and a Day of Plovdiv with a solemn ceremony in the square in front of the Monument.

Maritsa River

Maritsa River is the largest river on the Balkan Peninsula and flows through the city of Plovdiv. The first prehistoric settlement within the borders of the modern city was adjacent to the river, the ancient name of which - Hebros, is now associated with legends for city's first inhabitants. The riverbank was an area where traditions in wine production were established more than 5,000 years ago by Thracian tribes and never quit.

Nowadays, one can find a number of cozy restaurants, cafeterias and open-air sports facilities along the riverbank. The pedestrian bridge at the end of the Main Shopping Street is part of the city's retail area.

International Fair Ploydiv

In 1892, Plovdiv hosted the First Bulgarian Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition, which marked the beginning of the exhibition industry in Bulgaria.

International Fair Plovdiv is the successor of the First Exhibition and its mission, i.e. to contribute to the prosperity of the Bulgarian people by encouraging the development of the national industry.

The exhibition calendar of International Fair Plovdiv comprises multi-branch fairs and trade exhibitions covering key sectors of Bulgarian economy. The Fair is the organizer of the most important trade forums in the country, opening up prospects for the Bulgarian producers to emerge in the international market. The trade fair and exhibition events outline the performance of Bulgarian economy, as well as the interest of the international business in our country and region.
