Best time to Visit

West Palm Beach can be enjoyed any time of the year, thanks the subtropical climate. But, to avoid the hottest temperatures and biggest crowds, the best time to visit are at the end of spring (April to May) and the beginning of fall (September to October). However, Florida's hurricane season comes in fall, so during this period, the weather can be an issue, but nothing you should worry about since overly destructive hurricanes hardly hit Florida. The summer season is related with very hot temperatures and high humidity but the hotel rates are lower during this period while December to February is the high season, making West Palm Beach to even more expensive to visit although the humidity is down during this period making the weather more pleasant.
